Demo Leaders Ask For Charter Change, Elected Executive

A proposal to prepare and circulate a petition asking for the creation of a County Charter Commission for the adoption of a new modern county government including an elected county executive and a legislative board of 12 members was revealed today.

Two Democratic leaders in a combined announcement said they would propose the plan to the County Democratic Executive Committee.

Score Reapport

Aaron E. Klein, county Democratic chairman and Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, city chairman, in their announcement sharply scored the reapportionment plan of Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

It is the consensus of the Democratic leaders in the county and their advisors that the reapportionment plan of the Board of Supervisors, maintains a system which precludes any possibility of two-party government in this county for the foreseeable future.

The reapportionment plan adopted by the Board of Supervisors, achieves a result diametrically opposed to the principle of democratic government established by the historic decision of the United States Supreme Court. As the lines are now drawn, there is no present possibility of meaningful participation by a minority party in the government of Ulster County, the leaders said.

Fortunately, we have discovered a method of fighting the establishment, they said.

Under Article 4 of the Municipal Home Rule Law, adopted pursuant to the amendment to the New York State Constitution, effective January 1, 1964, known as Article IX, the electors of the county may petition for a referendum to adopt a county charter.

Has High Hopes
"The proposal for a county charter, providing for the direct election of a county executive and a streamlined legislature, will insure responsible government with proper checks and balances."

The Republican reapportionment plan adopted by the Board of Supervisors is full of inequities. However, the Democratic Party leadership has decided not to take sides in local controversies and must leave any action to the persons and groups primarily effected. Undoubtedly action will be taken to correct or ameliorate local inequities and injustices in the plan.

The Democratic leaders are determined that the choice of form of government for Ulster County is within the sole province of the people.

At the same time, it was announced that a Law Committee of the Democratic Party will be designated to recommend a proposed referendum on this subject.

MIG Appears, Scoots Away Planes Take Heavy Toll Of Enemy Shipping

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots attacked more than 200 North Vietnamese supply barges and junks Tuesday and reported destroying or damaging 111.

Moving in one day after American Air Force planes shot down seven Communist MIG21s, Navy fliers from three aircraft carriers reported using rockets to damage a surface-to-air missile radar site and to set fire to a torpedo boat off North Vietnam's port of Haiphong.

Cong Free 2 Yanks
In South Vietnam, the ground war simmered down to small actions while elsewhere British moves to start peace talks met with a Communist rebuff.

In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong set free two American civilians construction men whom they had held prisoner since last May 27 and a Filipino whom they seized last June 24.

The trio was found today by a company of Vietnamese popular force troops some 40 miles northeast of Saigon. U. S. officials announced.

Guam B52s Active
In other developments, Air Force long-range B52 bombers struck twice today at Communist positions in South Vietnam.

Before dawn, the heavy bombers swept in from Guam to hammer a suspected troop concentration 32 miles northwest of Saigon.

Soon after daybreak, a second wave of B52s pounded another suspected troop concentration eight miles west-northwest of Bong Son near the central coast.

In the Navy's air strikes Tuesday, F4 Phantoms and other jet bombers from the carriers Enterprise, Kitty Hawk and Coral Sea joined in repeated assaults against cargo junks and barges along the North Vietnam coast.

The Hanoi premier's statement, in an interview with correspondent Harrison E. Salisbury, raised speculation that North Vietnam had shifted in some measure from a hard-line all-or-nothing stand which blocked the path to a conference table.

Salisbury quoted Premier Dong as saying: "The big question is to reach a settlement which can be enforced."

"The party which has to make the first steps is Washington. We have no doubt on this point. We cannot press history forward. If this does not come about today, it will come about tomorrow. It's no use to make haste. If we show haste, the question will be put wrongly and (Continued on Page 33, Col. 8)

Eyes $2 Billion for New Roads, Stepped-Up War on Crime, Drugs

Public Hearing Set Jan. 17 on Span to Ulster Alignment

Persons interested in the alignment of the Kingston Arterial Route leading from the proposed new Rondout Creek bridge to Route 9W in the Town of Ulster at the Route 209 interchange, will have an opportunity to express their feelings at a public hearing to be held at the New York State Armory, North Manor Avenue, Kingston, Tuesday, Jan. 17. The meeting has been called for 2 p. m.

Considerable Opposition
There has been considerable opposition to the proposed route as it affects the Town of Ulster area where it is contended the proposed alignment, which would be east of the existing main artery, would work hardships on the Ulster shopping area and owners of industrial property sites to the north along Route 9W.

This opposition has been expressed by business people, property owners and Town of Ulster officials, including the Town of Ulster Businessmen's Association, all charging that the new alignment would "dead-end" a considerable amount of valuable industrial and business sites because of the lack of access through failure to provide sufficient interchange facilities to and from the proposed Arterial Route.

Show No Link
Opposition to the plan as proposed is based on maps which have been provided, showing that there will be no connection between the existing Route 9W and the proposed Arterial route at the site of the Route 209 overpass.

No Ingress, Egress
The plan as proposed would connect Route 9W with Neighborhood Road but allow no ingress or egress from 9W to the Gaugier road at the 209 overpass. In order for traffic coming from the north to reach the business places along Route 9W north of Shop-Rite Square, it would be necessary to travel south to the Shop-Rite Square interchange and then travel north again over 9W. It has been suggested that some provision be made in the 209 overpass area for a connection which would permit access to Route 9W at that point.

The proposed divided highway will begin on existing Route 9W in the Town of Esopus, west of Esopus Lake and proceeds in a northerly direction east of and parallel to existing Route 9W. The project highway crosses the Rondout Creek Bridge on a new bridge, and continues in a northerly direction through the City of Kingston to its northerly terminus on existing Route 9W in the Town of Ulster at the Route 209 interchange.

7.1 Mile Total Length
Total length of the project is 7.1 miles.

At the hearing, called by the Department of Public Works, a preliminary plan will be submitted showing the proposed alignment and properties through or contiguous to which the highway will pass. Department engineers will be on hand one-half hour prior to the start of the (Continued on Page 36, Col. 5)

Animal Also Perishes
Authorities listed the victim as Charles Schumann. A cat also died in the flames, authorities said.

In 1966, five county residents died as the result of fires, including two small children who were the victims of a blaze that destroyed a small building where they resided with their parents on a Milton farm. That fire occurred on Oct. 17.

A 35-year-old Kingston woman was the first fire victim of 1966. She died of suffocation on New Year's Day when flames destroyed bedding in her room on Cedar Street. A 72-year-old Bearsville woman perished on July 17, when fire swept through the boarding house she operated for many years.

The fifth resident to die as the result of a fire was an 85-year-old former Binnewater fire chief, who died in Kingston Hospital on Jan. 5 of burns suffered on Dec. 23, 1965, when sparks apparently dropped from the pipe (Continued on Page 36, Col. 4)

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller told the Legislature today he could keep the state government rolling without raising taxes this year but would need a massive bond issue—reportedly $2 billion—to improve highways and mass transit facilities.

The Republican governor, embarking on his third term, outlined a relatively conservative program in a 5,000-word "State of the State" message to the Legislature's opening session.

He proposed no major new programs that would place strain on the state treasury. The bond plan was offered as a financing device to sustain the state's road-building effort and to help modernize transit services in the New York City area.

Until today, Rockefeller had refused to commit himself on the tax issue or on the question of providing additional state aid for the public schools.

Sure to Gladden Many
His annual message was sure to gladden the hearts of lawmakers in the politically divided Legislature on both scores, since they are habitually eager to avoid tax increases and—at the same time—provide more money for school districts back home.

Rockefeller said extra money could be produced for the schools if the Legislature cooperated in putting a state lottery plan into effect during the new fiscal year, which begins April 1.

He cleared away lingering doubts on the tax issue in stating that he could hold the line on taxes by combining increased revenues expected from existing taxes with "the judicious use of bonds."

Rockefeller said he would seek authority for a "highway mass-transportation capital construction bond issue," a major borrowing to carry forward the state's road-building program.

Would Go on Ballot
Well-posted sources in the Rockefeller administration said he would seek permission to float at least $2 billion in bonds for that purpose. If the Legislature approves, the proposal would appear on the November election ballot.

Otherwise, reflecting the state's tight fiscal situation, Rockefeller indicated he would concentrate mainly on consolidating gains made during his first two terms. He proposed no major, new programs.

"It is a moment for stock-taking," he asserted.

Says U. S. Action Protects Castro

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The leaders of a tiny Cuban-Haitian exile army are in full today, fuming over breakup of a fantastic plan to conquer Haiti and turn it into an invasion base against Fidel Castro.

Officials at Key West's Monroe County jail said all were held for the federal government neutrality laws.

$5,000 Bond Set
Bond was set at $5,000 for Rolando Masferrer, exiled Havana politician who has tangled before with the United States over plots to shoot up Castro Cuba.

Officials set bond at $2,500 each for most of 27 comrades jailed here with him after a roundup of about 80 motley-armed persons, including a woman and a priest.

William B. Meadows, U. S. attorney for south Florida, said he was checking on whether Masferrer had violated restrictions imposed on him by the Immigration Service for previous war-making activities.

About 50 of the captives were taken to Miami for booking. All were released Tuesday night in recognition bonds of $100.

"We fear, on either side, criticized the United States for arresting him and his band at a Florida keys rendezvous where federal agents said the expedition was preparing to embark.

Eluded Arrest
One of the group's officers, Antonio Constanto, said at Miami that he eluded arrest and hitchhiked home.

Constanto said the expedition had planned to land at Port Au Prince, Haitian capital, join forces with 20 comrades in the Negro island republic, and overthrow Haitian President Francois Duvalier's government with the help of native malcontents.

Then the island would be used as a base to make war on Castro, whose territory lies only 50 miles west across the Windward Passage. Constanto said Masferrer was confident he could forge a Cuba invasion army within a month.

The Rev. Jean Baptiste Georges, a Haitian priest and once education minister under Duvalier, was to be installed as president. He was among those rounded up. Another was the group's only woman member, identified as Auria Pozzigo and described by exiles as the expedition's quartermaster.

Watched Loading
The raid was made on Cocca when agents saw a 55-foot shrimp boat being loaded late Monday night. They surrounded the island's only house and exiles came boiling out like ants from a kicked-over hill, cursing the raiders.

"Why do you stop us?" one demanded.

When the federal men saw how many persons they had surprised, they quickly got help from 20 sheriff's deputies. There was no resistance. Agents said they found a quantity of arms in the house.

Business Mirror Reflections

Critics Cite Costs, Other Factors About Supersonic Airliner

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The awards of contracts for the U.S. supersonic airliner were not all they seemed.

Although the government designated Boeing as contractor for the craft and General Electric as the supplier of engines, no announcement was made of a schedule for the project.

No Idea on Start
As it stands now, the supersonic contracts do not even lift the project off the drawing boards. President Johnson said he could not even predict when construction would begin.

Some observers still are disturbed by the fact that the tremendous thunderclap that will trail the supersonic may make it almost useless for domestic flight.

Despite years of work on how to eliminate the boom that accompanies the smashing of the sound barrier, the problem remains. The supersonic, if it were used on domestic flights, would shake up millions of people and send shivers through hundreds of square miles of landscape.

A question, then, that conservative members of Congress will be asking is whether the nation should commit enormous sums of money to build this craft while also pushing a costly

Landing Gear Problem

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A Mohawk Airlines plane carrying 48 passengers and a crew of three was diverted to Hancock Field here Tuesday night after an airline official said, a faulty warning light had indicated a landing gear had not locked in place.

The plane landed safely while fire-fighting equipment stood by. Foam was not used on the runway, said Peter Cass, executive assistant to the airline president.

The turboprop jet was flying from New York City to Ithaca and Elmira when the difficulty was discovered. Hancock Field was chosen for a landing strip because of its long runways.

Cass said the passengers continued to their destinations aboard another plane.

The incident was not related to a mechanics' strike against the carrier, he said.

space program and a war in Vietnam.

Critics Aren't Silent

Any project of this size, especially one which involves innovations that have been proven only on paper or in the laboratory, is wide open to criticism. And the critics aren't silent.

Among the chief criticisms is that the supersonic airliner is not needed. Another is that it is unproven technologically. And still another is the method and cost of financing.

Present indications are that development costs will come close to $5 billion. The government is committed to pay at least 75 per cent of this amount—a sum that has been growing, as seems always to be the case in financing large projects.

Some feeling also exists that one company should not be entrusted with sole responsibility for such a project. And the fact that the thunderclap problem has not been solved, and won't be until a prototype is built, lends credence to suggestions that Lockheed still might be in the picture.

The reasoning here is that most of Boeing's supersonics might initially be used for transoceanic flight. The noise factor isn't so important over water. The big plane could cruise from its take off city at subsonic speed, reaching sound-breaking speed out over the ocean.

One Positive Aspect

If the Boeing supersonic is used only across oceans, it is possible that a smaller, slower supersonic might be built for domestic use. The assumption is that a small plane would be less of a nuisance.

Balanced against these negatives is one overriding positive aspect: the demands of the U.S. balance of payments situation.

A supersonic airliner could make a tremendous difference in our trade balance. If we exported supersonic planes our trade balance would improve by billions of dollars. Without a supersonic we would have to import, and our trade deficit would deepen.

Three other nations are involved in building supersonics: the Soviet Union, Britain and France. American companies already have signed contracts to buy the supersonic Concorde, a product of a French-British alliance.

Report 12,100 '66 Fire Deaths

BOSTON (AP) — Fire caused approximately 12,100 deaths and some $1.8 billion in property loss during 1966, preliminary figures by the National Fire Protection Association showed today.

The estimated death toll was up some 100 over the 1965 total and apparently equalled the record high of 12,100 set in 1954, the NFPA said.

Should the property loss total be final, the NFPA said, it will be an all-time high. The previous record of $1.78 billion was recorded in 1963.

The fire victims included about 2,100 children, the NFPA reported.

Induct Peace Corpsman

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A Seattle Peace Corps volunteer who protested being pulled out of the Philippines for the draft is scheduled to be inducted next Tuesday.

The volunteer, Fred Lonidier, 24, wrote to the Manila Times after receiving his induction notice and said it was a waste of time and money to train Peace Corps volunteers and then draft them. He also termed the Peace Corps a political gimmick.

He joined the Peace Corps after he was classified 1A in the draft. Lonidier and his wife, Paullette, 23, who was a Peace Corps volunteer with him in the Philippines, returned to Seattle after visiting her parents in California.

Rocky Advocates Establishment of Crime Curb Dept.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Acceleration of New York State's war on crime and drug-addiction was proposed today by Gov. Rockefeller.

In his message to the Legislature, the Republican governor recommended establishment of a State Department of Crime Control to "provide a unified command for the state's criminal justice agencies."

Hits Federal Stand

He described the states' $1-billion program to curb drug-addiction as "the nation's most comprehensive full-scale attack on this evil." He took the occasion to criticize as inadequate the federal government's contribution toward control and rehabilitation of drug-addiction.

Rockefeller said he would ask the Legislature to strengthen the effectiveness of local law-enforcement by requiring future supervisory officers to complete approved study courses.

In the same vein, he also recommended that district attorneys of large counties serve full time, instead of part time, and that minimum pay standards be

Vow Completion Of Legislature Before April 4

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Top legislative leaders vowed Tuesday to wind up the 1967 session before the April 4 opening of the State Constitutional Convention.

"The governor is going to have to accommodate himself to the pace we're going to set," Earl W. Brydges, the Senate's Republican Majority leader, said in a news conference. "He understands our problem."

Brydges and Anthony J. Travia, Democratic speaker of the Assembly, told newsmen they plan to get their houses off to a fast start by appointing standing committees.

Committee assignments previously have not been made until the second or third week of the session.

One incentive for avoiding simultaneous sessions of the Legislature and the Convention is that many of the legislators are convention delegates. Another is that the 186 delegates are scheduled to use the Assembly chamber.

Brydges, Travia, Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki and Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Durvea spoke to newsmen after a three-hour leadership conference on the eve of the opening of the new session.

They said their conference had been devoted to "housekeeping" chores.

In response to questions, both Travia and Brydges expressed confidence that the 1967 Legislature would implement the mandate of the voters by passing a statewide lottery.

Their research on the topic would be pooled with the research of Gov. Rockefeller's staff, they said.

"I'd like to get it started as soon as possible," Brydges said. Travia added, "I've said right along there's no political advantage in this thing."

Brydges, who personally disapproves of a lottery as a source for education funds, said "some money will be available from a lottery this year." He said, however, that he could not estimate the amount.

Among other topics, the legislative leaders said they discussed the possibility of extending the lifetime of all bills to two years, and establishing a daily record of Assembly activities.

Accord Reported Between GE and Teamsters Local

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—A third union reached agreement Tuesday night with the General Electric Co., leaving only one small union blocking the resumption of work at the firm's huge complex here.

Teamsters Local 294, representing more than 50 members, reached what is termed "a memorandum of understanding" about 48 hours after a similar agreement was announced by Local 147 of the American Federation of Technical Engineers (Schenectady Draftsmen's Association), with 450 members.

The 11,500-member Local 301 of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) voted Friday to end their 10-week old strike against GE, but said it would not return to work as long as the other unions continued to strike.

Negotiations are continuing with representatives of the 450-member Local 128 of the Plumbers and Steamfitters, the only union officially still on strike. The union is asking, among other things, a 68-cent increase in hourly pay.

EXPANSION AND PLANNING

An indication of the continuing expansion in this area is the giant strides being taken by local utilities in providing generating plants throughout the Hudson Valley.

Lelan F. Sillin Jr., president of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, recently announced that the company plans a nuclear-fueled plant in the middle 1970's on a 765-acre site just south of Tivoli. In the meantime, the Danskammer Point plant is being expanded with a new unit to be in service in the fall. When this new 230,000 kilowatt unit is placed in service, Central Hudson will have sufficient generating capacity to supply the increasing electric power requirements of its customers to 1970.

The Central Hudson serves approximately a half million people on both sides of the Hudson River. The population is expected to double by 1980.

The Orange and Rockland Utilities Corporation of Nyack will start construction this month of an additional $26 million unit on its plant at Tompkins Cove that will burn conventional fuels.

Orange and Rockland Utilities also serves a population of approximately a half million in parts of Orange, Rockland and Sullivan Counties. An increase in population to 825,000 within 20 years is expected by the company.

These power companies said plans were not contingent on the development of the Storm King plant of Consolidated Edison although they are linked together and commonly exchange power when needed.

The continuous growth of the Hudson Valley also is manifested by new homes, schools, hospital facilities, shopping centers, motels, resorts and industrial plant expansions. Rich in history, as an area of homes, farms and small business, this valley in recent years has undergone a significant transformation in that industry and commerce have become major elements in the economy of the area.

If we are to realize our full potential in the years ahead, we must have long-range regional planning. Pattern-for-Progress, the new Mid-Hudson Valley planning group, is preparing to meet these expanding and challenging times, however, it needs the support of all valley business interests and the general public.

CREDIT CARD CROOK

Something like $20 million will be lost in the United States in 1967 to a new breed of thief, the credit card crook, predicts the National Better Business Bureau.

Currently about 20 million Americans carry one or more credit or charge-account cards, and 1.5 million of their cards are reported lost or stolen annually. In the latter category, the number stolen is estimated to range up to 300,000.

"Few credit card holders are really aware of how valuable their cards can be," says Kenneth B. Wilson, president of the NBBC. "The man who is exceedingly careful with $10 bills will scarcely give a thought to his credit card until it turns up missing and somebody else has started to run up charges in his name."

In one case, three Long Island housewives "bought" $16,000 worth of merchandise with stolen cards on a month-long spree. A gambler from Pittsburgh ran up a nation-wide tab of $125,000 on other people's cards. He raised cash on the side by peddling discounted airline tickets charged on credit cards mislaid by their rightful owners.

A thief need not even risk using a card himself. Reportedly, a "hot" credit card can be sold for as much as $250 in some of the nation's large cities where cards are accepted like cash and few people bother to scrutinize signatures.

The holder of a card must pay, of course, for purchases made in his name up until the time he reports its loss to the card-issuing firm. Some insurance companies now write policies to cover card holders against such liability.

The NBBC advises credit card holders to take these steps:

Promptly notify the issuer of loss. Telephone or wire and then follow up with a letter.

Never lend a credit card.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
ARE WE UNDERWRITING WAR IN THE MIDDLE EAST?

Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana, who has been doing a bit of world traveling and dislikes what he sees, has put it up to Secretary of State Dean Rusk to bring the Israeli and Jordanian governments together. Nothing is likely to come of Hartke's message to Rusk, for the United States has formed an apparently unbreakable habit of letting the UN make its foreign policy. Partly because of the UN's defective structure, and partly because of our own refusal to regard the glass house by Manhattan's East River as a proper place for asserting our own national interests, we never get anything when we seek justice from the "world parliament." There's always a squeeze play, and Dean Rusk is the one who gets squeezed.

It is no secret that, in any Middle Eastern showdown, the United States would be on the side of Israel. But, in the UN, we ostentatiously play it "neutral" as between the Israelis and the Arabs. So we trap ourselves. When Israel asks the UN to do something about armed raids across her borders from Jordan or Syria, the Soviet Union stops the works by refusing to go along. Unable to get justice at the UN, the self-respecting Israeli government is forced to take things into its own hands. It authorizes a strike against the Jordanian town of Es Samu. Whereupon the Jordanians complain to the UN. The UN Security Council forthwith censures Israel for the attack. Unwilling to use its veto power, the United States approves the censure—thereby proving to the world that only the allies of the Soviet Union can count on the support of a big "protector" in the UN Security Council.

The fact that we are too gentlemanly to invoke a veto to insure that Israel will get even-handed treatment at the UN could lead to a terrible misunderstanding. And the possibility of such a misunderstanding is all the more dangerous because of the dynamite that we ourselves have been strewing about the Middle East.

The dynamite comes in the form of the military assistance that we have been giving to both sides in the Middle East. It is impossible to get accurate figures about military aid, for the recipient governments don't want the information publicized in detail. But fighter planes have recently gone from the United States to Jordan, ostensibly to keep Arab nationalists from Syria or Egypt from toppling Jordan's King Hussein, who is firmly anti-Communist but shaky on his throne. The State Department will not confirm the shipments, but, during his travels, Senator Hartke has watched the unloading of war material at Middle Eastern docks. Even Middle Eastern nations that don't directly benefit from U.S. military aid manage to get it surreptitiously. The wheat we send to Nasser, which is supposed to combat hunger among the peasantry, goes to feed the Egyptian army.

What bothers Hartke is the possibility that the Arabs and the Israelis may one day be fighting one another with American arms. We will have financed a war against our own best interests. And, if Israel is threatened with extinction, we will be assailed to come to her rescue, thus plunging us into a new Vietnam situation in the Middle East.

Senator Hartke would be so worried if he hadn't made a trip to India and Pakistan a couple of years ago. The Indians showed him what they called Patton's graveyard — meaning a dump where they had thrown seventy U.S.-made Patton tanks captured from the Pakistanis. The Pakistanis, in turn, showed Hartke an arsenal of U.S.-manufactured military hardware taken from the Indians. Ironically, we had sent arms to the Pakistanis to defend them against a Russian threat, and arms to the Indians to protect them against the Red Chinese.

The late Isabel Paterson once said that the Battle of Stalingrad in World War II American energy met its end, going against the world in two directions. Meaning that we had built up Germany after World War I, and given lend-lease to the Soviets in World War II. Well, American energy may collide against American energy once again. We may be causing a war in the Middle East by a policy that is supposed to prevent it. Wouldn't it make more sense to say that we are shipping arms to no one, but if Israel is attacked we will go to her aid within twenty-four hours?

Wide Variety of Reasons
For Having Shaky Hands

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Could extreme nervousness, manifested by shaking of my hands, be caused by a vitamin deficiency? I am 35 and in good health otherwise.

A—The shaking may be due to anxiety, exposure to cold, extreme fatigue, excessive use of alcohol, tobacco or various drugs, poisoning with mercury, lead, manganese or bismuth, toxic goiter, low blood sugar, paralysis agitans or Parkinson's disease, multiple sclerosis and other diseases of the nervous system. I have omitted congenital causes and causes affecting the aged. Vitamin deficiency would cause tremors only after it had resulted in extreme debility.

Q—My husband is 75. His hands are very shaky, especially when he eats. What treatment would you suggest?

A—In addition to the causes of tremors listed in the preceding answer is the tremor sometimes seen in elderly persons and attributable solely to age. There is no treatment for this except by observing the rules of hygienic living—adequate rest, balanced diet and moderate exercise.

Q—My husband was diagnosed as having progressive bulbar palsy. What causes it and what can be done for it?

A—In this disease there is a slowly progressing weakness with wasting of the involved muscles but no change in the sensory nerves. The onset usually occurs in persons who are over 40. The cause is unknown. Although no effective treatment is as yet available the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness in Bethesda, Md., is doing research on it.

Q—What would cause my hands to go numb when I am holding a pen, using a broom or steering a car?

A—In some persons with arthritis the swelling in the joints present on the sensory nerves causes numbness which is most noticeable when the joints are being used. Other possible causes are anemia, diseases of the circulation, Raynaud's disease of the nervous system. When the cause is determined appropriate treatment can be prescribed.

Q—In its first stage could syphilis be transmitted from one man to another sleeping in the same room in separate beds? Would a blood test show syphilis 5 years after a suspected exposure.

A—The disease would not be transmitted in manner described. The blood test is the most reliable means of diagnosis after the first stage is past.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

The millions of Americans who very shortly will be able to read magazine excerpts of William Manchester's "The Death of a President" should understand that they will be looking at a political document as well as one man's record of John F. Kennedy's assassination.

It is political because, by all accounts of those who have seen the work in advance, it lays important stress upon the painful estrangement between two great power centers in the ruling Democratic party—the one focused upon President Johnson, the other upon the Kennedys.

If we are to take at face value Mrs. John F. Kennedy's statement issued after settlement of negotiations which led to the exercising of certain passages from the Manchester work, the changes do not affect the political content.

Deliberately and consciously, however, Mrs. Kennedy sought to reflect adversely upon that content, saying: "I have been told there are historical inaccuracies and unfair references in this book. . . . In time, history will deal fairly and justly with this period."

The fact is, that even before publication and solely on the basis of leaked hints as to content, a corrective process has already set in against Manchester's judgments with respect to the Kennedy-Johnson relationships.

If the advance word is accurate and Lyndon Johnson suffers acutely in the author's portrayal of the events surrounding the assassination, then a sense of fairness will impel historians, political observers, book critics and others to join quickly the effort to balance the record.

The leaked Manchester post-assassination portrait of Johnson is of a crude insensitive man, seen by the Kennedys as too eager to seize power, trying to "use" the Kennedys to aggrandize himself in his new role, shoving them aside.

All the Kennedy-Johnson principals in the postassassination drama, particularly in the early stages aboard Air Force One in Dallas and en route to Washington, were in varying degrees of shock. Being human, they made mistakes. Normally controlled animosities flared openly under stress. People with differing but quite understandable purposes crossed wires.

Mrs. Kennedy wanted to get quickly away from the assassination locale. The new President wanted to wait to be sworn in. The Kennedys thought it unseemly for Johnson to "take over." He thought it important to the nation and the world that continuity of authority be swiftly established.

We Americans who were mere onlookers in late 1963 and thereafter can hardly say we would have behaved better. No one really knows how he will act in a crisis until he is in it, no matter what nobility of performance he claims in advance. Most of us live lives of masterly perfection which suggest that we, too, would have made mistakes—though not the same ones.

When John Kennedy's death was a certified fact, then Lyndon Johnson WAS President. He had a duty to "take over," to keep power flowing smoothly, to reassure the country it was being firmly governed at a grave turn in its history.

However crude and self-serving it may have seemed to the Kennedys, it even made sense for him to give the appearance (false or not) of a tight alliance between himself and his slain predecessor. Hence his insistence at having Mrs. Kennedy at his side at the swearing-in. He was even the source of a later report, ill-founded, that she would campaign for him in 1964.

Moreover, in the long, critical months after the tragedy, Johnson's own original White House aides went well out of their way to avoid treading roughshod over Kennedy men still working in the White House. Kennedy men testified to this effect endlessly in this period. Johnson needed them, to be sure, but he also appreciated their competence and sought to hold it.

Indeed, on the controversial trip back from Dallas, when Johnson-Kennedy hostility is said to have been raging, the new president forecast his intent to seek harmony in a long, pleading talk with a key Kennedy White House man.

Add one more to the traffic toll. Big John. He broke a rib on Christmas Day. He was in a one-way zone between his bedroom and the bathroom—which is also a gangway zone—on foot when his big feather chair leaped up and cracked him across the chest.

Peculiar. He said "ooh" and muttered a few descriptive phrases for the chair, and went on, shuffling toward the john. His gait is so slow that he could be passed by slow turtles.

I asked him if it hurt, and he said "Damn right it does. Bring me a little Schenley's." "I said I'd rather call the doctor. He said he had faith in whiskey. He got neither."

The night before, he had said: "In the morning, you people start opening the presents. Let me sleep. I've got a lot of mileage on me." He's 83.

So we didn't wake him. The children hardly got the wrappings off the first gift on Christmas morning when he came tottering out of his pad, an ancient Irish warrior in a bathrobe. He adjusted his glasses, murmured "Merry Christmas" to one and all, and said: "Better get inside and get my teeth. There may be something to eat in this pig."

He looks better with the cup and saucer. Without them, his whole head looks like something that got a free ride in a revolving door. So he sat, and the blue eyes twinkled silently as he watched the faces of Gayle and Karen and Kathleen, and heard the shrieks of joy.

From the robe came Christmas envelopes with checks. He passed them out like a sharp saying: "Pick a card. Pick any card." "My father turned on his sad smile. 'I'm too old to go shopping,' he said. 'So I have to give out checks.' All the girls stared happily at the numbers and said: "Oh, that's all right, Grandpa."

Among the gifts I received was one from G. P. Putnam's Sons. It is called The Millionaire's Diary, 1967. Big John examined the rich red cover and took his check back. He waited patiently for the Christmas eggnog. It arrived scrambled, with bacon. He said it was one hell of a Christmas. I reminded him that Dr. Louis Bennett told him "much water, no whiskey."

He said he was trying to forget it. Kelly told him he could have his heart pill, his ulcer pill, the diuretic pill, the cathartic pill, the nerve pill, two vitamin pills and a cup of tea. "I just got finished telling you," he snarled at me, "it's one hell of a Christmas." He tucked all the after-shave lotion sent to him under his arm and did a cha-cha to the bedroom.

Once upon a time, he was a pretty wild man. He was big and handsome and he could spellbind guests with stories, and he loved food and drink. At Lundy's in Sheephead Bay, he went through the dinner twice. Today, the biggest excitement is when Rocky walks into his room and sits at his feet.

JFK Inaugural Doctrine Seen Right Presidential Attitude

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Maybe it's more logical to look ahead — instead of Retrospectively — in choosing a "Man of the Year." As 1967 begins, unquestionably "The Man With the Burden of the Year" is Lyndon Baines Johnson. While he is the president of only one country, he has on his shoulders the weight of a troubled world.

Even if the domestic problems were not so complex, an awesome responsibility still is imposed today on a chief executive as he strives to prevent the big war which might come suddenly or seeks to make the big peace for which mankind yearns.

Are the tasks of the presidency too much for one man? "What would you do?"—It might be asked of any of the prominent men in congress or of the governors in the several states. The answer in at least one respect is obvious. No single individual can be expected to handle the presidential burden by himself. Since two or more heads are better than one, it would be a good thing to set up a cabinet group with five of the best qualified persons in America to act as day-by-day advisers on foreign policy. They would not have the job of operating any of the regular departments. Their nominations, moreover, would be submitted to and confirmed by the Senate so that they would be responsible to congress as well as to the president.

In domestic affairs, the same formula could be applied. The problems of the United States—both at home and abroad — are important enough to require the concentrated attention of at least 10 outstanding individuals serving alongside the President. They could meet daily, as the executive committee of the board of directors of many a large corporation does nowadays.

It will be argued that every President has some aides or assistants at his elbow. But they are not directly responsible to the public, as is the case with the individuals who hold a cabinet portfolio. Under the suggested supplement to the existing system, the routine business of government could be managed by career personnel, and these administrative managers of the different departments and agencies would report periodically to the President through a cabinet committee.

Insufficient help at a president's side. However, is the only weakness. There is, unfortunately, a tendency to let so-called political judgements rule the day. It isn't what is best for the country that influences many a decision, but what is thought to be good for a president who wants to be renominated and re-elected.

There is one word — courage — which seems for some presidents to defend for themselves. The inclination is to rationalize political advantages and disadvantages in the making of public policy, particularly in the domestic field.

A president often wavers between doing what he feels is right and what he fears he must do because it seems politically expedient. But is reelection so important? Would not a president win an enduring satisfaction and a notable place in history if he dedicated himself in a single term to that which he knows in his heart serves the people best, even though it might cost him reelection?

President Johnson undoubtedly gets into many a quandary as he weighs the political pressures which come from supporters and the antagonisms he might incur if he decides that what some special groups want him to do is not in the best interest of all the people.

It was the late President Kennedy who said in his inaugural address: "Ask not what your country will do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

This is still the doctrine which should motivate a President as he asks himself not what a particular decision will do for him politically, but what it will do for the country. If Mr. Johnson decides in favor of all the people, he could become the "man of the year" not merely in 1967 but on election day in Nov. 1968.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Pisa's leaning tower has been leaning almost from the moment construction began in 1174, according to The World Almanac. To offset the tilt, architects built the upper stories at an angle that gives the tower an odd back-curve. After many delays, the eight-story building was finally completed in 1350-178 years after work first started. Today the tower leans 14 feet 4 inches from the perpendicular.

Demo Caucus in House Will Decide Fate of 21-Day Rule

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision that could vitally affect the course of legislation in the 90th Congress will be made next Monday when House Democrats hold their pre-session caucus.

They will decide whether to try to retain the 21-day rule or discard it.

Limited to 2 Days

The rule puts a limit of 21 days on the time the Rules Committee may block House action on legislation approved by other committees. It was adopted originally at the insistence of Speaker Sam Rayburn to protect President John F. Kennedy's legislative program from strangulation by the Rules Committee then dominated by conservatives. It has been retained at the insistence of the Democratic leadership.

But last year's election results made the rule less appealing to its original sponsors. Among other things, the elections vacated the seats of Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith, a conservative Virginia Democrat, and James W. Trimble, an Arkansas moderate.

Held 10 Seats

Democrats held 10 seats on the Rules Committee last year and Republicans 5. The ideological division was 8 to 7 in favor of the liberals, although there were times when the reverse was true, and the 21-day rule was used on several occasions.

The lineup in the new Congress will be 10 Democrats and 5 Republicans. Democrats plan to fill their two vacancies with liberals. Theoretically that would give the Democratic leadership a 9-6 voting edge on most legislation, or at worst 8 to 7. The new chairman, Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., has voted in the past with the 5 Republicans and probably will continue to do so.

Could Be Wedge

With that strong grip on the committee, the leadership sees no point in retaining the 21-day rule. It could be used to force House votes on legislation the leaders want bottled up by the Rules Committee.

Conservatives will be in numerical control of some committees this year and might kick over the traces and approve bills the administration doesn't want. In that event, an unfettered Rules Committee could serve as a graveyard.

Rep. Richard M. Bolling, D-Mo., one of the original champions of the 21-day rule and a leading spokesman for the liberals, sees no reason to retain the rule.

"We don't need it and we don't want it if we get a strong grip on the Rules Committee," Bolling said.

Reportedly Agree

Speaker John W. McCormack and Democratic Leader Carl Albert reportedly agree with Bolling, although they have made no formal statements to that effect. Next Monday's caucus probably will bow to the wishes of McCormack and Albert.

Whether the rule is retained or junked is up to the House itself. It will make the final decision when the new rules are adopted at next Tuesday's opening session.

Cut Your Own Taxes

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There are rare instances where separate returns by a husband and wife may produce a greater savings than on a joint return.

But in the great majority of cases, a joint return—because of its lower tax rates—is the more economical.

Exceptions to the general rule occur where husband and wife each have income and where there may be unusually high medical expenses or capital losses.

Since medical expenses for taxpayers under 65 are not deductible until after they exceed 3 percent of income, it is apparent that a separate return by the party having a lower income and relatively high medical expenses would produce a medical deduction.

It must be remembered that when on spouse itemizes his deductions on a separate return the other must also itemize instead of taking the 10 percent or the minimum standard deduction.

When a medical deduction is claimed on a separate return care must be taken to see that payment of the medical expenses is made by the spouse's own funds. Payments made by check on a joint checking account, for instance, will be assumed to have been paid one-half by each spouse.

The only way to make sure of a savings on separate rather than joint returns is to try both methods and then file the one which saves you the most money. Where separate returns are made, each partner must list all of his own income.

The exception is in so-called community property states where all earned income and all income received from property acquired after marriage is treated as community income with half belonging to each spouse.

If a husband and wife each had capital losses on investments last year they may be able to obtain greater advantage of their losses on separate returns.

On a joint return they must first use the losses to offset capital gains and if any loss remains they may apply $1,000 of it as a write-off against other income. On separate returns they each could get full advantage of the $1,000 reduction against other income after first reducing their gains.

A lesser opportunity for savings on separate returns occurs where a husband and wife each had income under $5,000 and use the automatic tax tables instead of itemizing deductions. Sometimes the combined tax on separate returns using this method is less than the tax on a joint return. In such instances the savings generally is less than $5.

Shrug Triggered Return of Zanuck

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

Second of five articles on the revival of 20th Century-Fox

NEW YORK (AP)—Darryl F. Zanuck moved swiftly after 20th Century-Fox summarily canceled his independent production of "The Chapman Report" in 1961.

The producer took the project to his old boss, Jack L. Warner, who agreed to release the film through Warner Bros. Zanuck's son Richard moved to the Warner studio to produce the movie that had been rejected by economy-minded members of the Fox board of directors. It proved to be only a fair success.

Again Against Wall

Zanuck the elder was devoting his efforts to a war epic, "The Longest Day." Again he found himself up against the Wall Street-dominated board of directors. He had to present his script and budget for approval, and the directors were reluctant to okay his production estimate of $5 million, plus overhead that might add another million.

The board finally approved the film but insisted that big-name stars be included in the cast for boxoffice insurance. Zanuck agreed.

By May of 1962, he had finished most of the photographing on "The Longest Day." He was pleased with it. He recognized the movie as his one great chance to regain the $4-million losses of his previous independent films and to redeem his reputation as a movie maker.

But he was worried about how 20th Century-Fox would release "The Longest Day," which by now had cost $8 million. The company was still pouring millions into "Cleopatra" and was in the process of losing $50 million in a two-year period. It was taking desperate measures to avoid insolvency.

The entire Westwood studio property was sold for $43 million; the back lot went for a real estate development, and the studio buildings were retained at a $15-million annual rental. After taxes, the remaining $32 million from the land sale soon vanished to make up losses. Feature films were sold off to television, and oil was pumped from fields under the studio.

"Fox is liable to sell off 'The Longest Day' fast to get money coming in," Zanuck was told by his adviser, attorney Arnold Grant. He suggested hiring of Zanuck's own salesmen to oversee 20th-Fox's deals with theaters, so the company would go for long-range profit, rather than a quick buck. Zanuck agreed.

Favored Independent Force

In May of 1962, Spyros Skouras was re-elected president of 20th Century-Fox, though he had undergone surgery and appeared to be losing power to other board members. Samuel Rosenman, a major adviser to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, became chairman.

Zanuck went to Rosenman with his proposal for an independent sales force to handle "The Longest Day." Rosenman rejected the suggestion, and then indicated that he had another appointment.

As he left the meeting, Zanuck's temper flared. He said to Grant: "I'm going back."

On June 28, 1962, Zanuck hurled the gauntlet. He issued a press statement declaring that the Fox board and its executive committee had taken over running the company and most

HINTS from HELOISE

Dear Folks:

Here's another little tidbit I found out recently which might save you a pan cleaning job.

For those of you who love stuffed bell peppers but hate to clean the pan: are you aware that you can cook them in an old aluminum "frozen dinner tray"? Then just discard it after supper. On pan holds exactly four. Two peppers fit in the big side and one in each vegetable compartment.

Another thing I found was... before I put by stuffed peppers in the oven to cook, if I put about two teaspoons of water in each compartment, the peppers steamed themselves and did not stick to the pan.

Absolutely delicious... And as I have said before, when mixing up that hamburger meat for the stuffed peppers, don't forget to add some bouillon cubes. You'll have a tastier dish. You also might try adding a tablespoon or so of Worcestershire sauce. It's great, too.

... Heloise

Dear Heloise: I covered a two-pound can with adhesive-backed plastic paper in a rose chintz pattern.

It's just the thing for my wiglet when fitted into the right height hatbox. I glued the can in place so it won't slide about.

... Elizabeth Ray

Dear Heloise: For those who save coupons redeemable in grocery stores, here's how I never forget mine:

members "have had no experience in the motion picture industry."

What the company needed, he said, was "a new president, new policy, complete reorganization of every department and branch."

Zanuck concluded: "I have been inaudible for entirely too long. Now, as the largest single individual stockholder, I intend to make my position clear on all major matters."

Next, The battle won with invisible aid from Howard Hughes.

I take my grocery list on the back of an envelope and insert the coupons inside. This way when I get to the store I have my coupons.

... Dottie Wienecke

Dear Heloise: I was just sifting through my pin box for a needle when I hit on an idea I haven't seen yet in your column.

I taped a soft piece of material to the inside of the lid—several thicknesses—and stuck my needles into it. Now they are easily found.

Sure, I have a pin cushion, but when I'm in a hurry at the sewing machine, I keep my thimble, pins and needles all in this one small box.

... Virginia P. Herrick

Dear Heloise: For mothers who have all those bumper pads left over from the crib:

They make excellent little pads for around the back of the high chair and stroller. Since they have ties, you can tie them in place. They are made of plastic and can be washed often.

It certainly helps hold those little fellows up so they aren't sagging and slipping.

... Ginny Hertwerk

Dear Heloise: Our family is quite large and likes to get together for holidays; which means lots of children and never enough beds.

We have found that when three small children have to sleep in one double bed, they have much more room if you put the pillows along one side and let them sleep across the bed.

If you are really crowded, four can sleep this way.

Before we got this idea we thought nothing of sleeping three in a double bed.

Of course, the older children would be too tall, but our nine-year-old can still sleep across a double bed.

For Eve Store Jobs Hold Three Airmen

MONTREAL, Que. (AP)—Three airmen from the U.S. Air Force base at Plattsburgh, N. Y., are being held without bail in Montreal jail on conspiracy and armed robbery charges, pending a preliminary hearing. Edward Wilson, 18, Johnson Fountain, 20, and Wayne Robinson, 20, were arrested in connection with the New Year's Eve robberies of a downtown grocery store and drugstore.

The grocery store holdup yielded $39 while $100 was taken at the drugstore.

9,595 Capital Alarms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Firemen in the nation's capital responded to 9,595 alarms in 1966. More than half—5,333—were false, officials said today.

The old record for such acts, which occur largely in areas of low-cost housing with heavy concentrations of children, was 4,237, set in 1965.

Caldor Reports 2 Key Changes

The promotion of Dennis G. Thiel of Ridgefield, Conn. to Data Processing manager and the appointment of Milton S. Rogow of Westfield, Mass. as traffic manager at Caldor were announced today by Herman Effren, vice president in charge of personnel of Caldor, Inc.

Thiel joined Caldor two years ago as a computer programmer and has been responsible for developing our NCR data processing system. He was a member of the retail programming research team that programmed REACT's automated package for inventory decisions before becoming associated with Caldor.

Caldor's pioneering EDP system has won national recognition and is considered one of the most advanced in the retail industry. The reporting system developed by Thiel is designed to allow flexibility in the type and frequency of retail reporting thus enabling each sales department to receive specialized unit reports.

Thiel lives in Ridgefield, Conn. with his wife, the former Patricia Daly, and two children, Gregory and Christopher. He is a graduate of the IBM and NCR Programming Schools and was a computer programmer for the Mutual Savings Bank.

Rogow was traffic manager for Savage Arms in Westfield, Mass. and terminal manager for General Expressways before joining Caldor recently. He is a resident of Springfield, Mass. and is married to the former Ethel Mann. They have two children, Fern Ellen, 16, and Cheryl Toby, 10. He is a veteran of service in the U.S. Air Force during World War II.

Everybody Goofs, Says Expert

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim: "We are discussing experts at their worst. What hand did you butcher worst in the course of your career?"

Oswald: "You are asking me to cover a lot of territory and I really have made some horrible mistakes. Once, in a rubber game I let declarer make a double grand slam when I held the ace of trumps. I relaxed and re-voked."

Jim: "That hand wouldn't interest our readers. How about something almost as spectacular?"

Oswald: "Here's one from the 1952 men's team. I was just back from the Korean war and a trifle out of practice, but I really goofed."

Jim: "It looks like a routine hand. South is in a normal four spade contract. He can make it if he picks up that singleton king of clubs but there will be no reason for him to make that play and he will finesse and go down one trick."

Oswald: "I sat West and opened the jack of hearts. My partner took his ace and queen and returned a diamond to my ace. I led a diamond back. South won, led a trump back to his king. Then he called for the queen of clubs from dummy. At this point someone said, 'You are in your own hand.' South had to lead a club from his hand. He played the ace and made his contract."

Jim: "Who was the someone?"

Oswald: "I was. Silence is golden. If I had just kept my mouth shut I would have made

Governor Eyes
Role of Computer
For Better City

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Giant computers were visualized today by Gov. Rockefeller as a means of producing a better city environment.

"The strength of government close to the people is vital to any coordinated effort for a better urban environment," Rockefeller said in his annual message to the Legislature.

To this end, he recommended: —Establishment of a central data bank of economic statistics to serve state and municipal governments and private agencies.

Computer systems that would enable the state to make maximum effective use of modern technology in solving government problems and planning for the future.

He also proposed a cooperative program of training local government officials, and 100 per cent state financial aid for planning joint local government services.

my king of clubs. Fortunately it didn't make any difference in the final result. We lost that board but my teammates managed to pull me through to first place anyway."

Sees Slower Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wisc., says the proposed increase of St. Lawrence Seaway tolls will slow expansion.

"Last summer, the Seaway Corporation recommended against the toll increase," he said. "I am disappointed that the corporation has made an about face on this issue. The continued expansion of the seaway will be retarded by the proposed toll increase."

The increase would raise the tolls by 10 per cent for the 1967 through 1971 shipping seasons.

Bids Legislature Resist Limit on State Medicaid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller sought legislative support today in a move to discourage any future attempt by the federal government to reduce aid for New York's medical aid program.

The Republican governor issued his plea in his annual message to the Legislature in which he pointed out that the last session of Congress weighed the possibility of limiting Medicaid reimbursement.

Called Too Generous

Congressional critics asserted that New York's program was too generous in scope.

This year too, said Rockefeller, "there are indications... that efforts will be made to tighten down on the amount of federal money New York receives for medical aid."

Such a move, Rockefeller declared, "would discriminate against New York's program and its citizens."

The governor asked the legislators to resist "any discriminatory limitations so that New York may continue to receive its fair share of federal aid under the terms and conditions of the law enacted by Congress."

The governor added, however, that the state must recognize that Medicaid is a new program and "therefore may require amendments in the light of experience."

Death Strikes 3 Times

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Daniel W. Davis' wife, mother and only child have died in the past week.

Davis' wife, Katherine, 57, died last Friday after a short illness.

A few hours later a Marine Corps officer arrived at the family home with word that the couple's son, Pfc. Edward Davis, 19, had been killed Dec. 28 by an enemy explosive device in Vietnam.

Davis was in Decatur, Ill. for burial of his wife Tuesday when word was received that his mother, Ludie Sanders, 86, died of pneumonia in Bell, Calif., Sunday.

health field, Rockefeller said he would recommend:

—Increased financial aid to students of nursing, physical therapy and occupational therapy, estimated to cost about $12.5 million. The idea is to encourage more students to enter those fields.

—Creation of new state institutes for research on heart ailments, alcoholism and birth defects.

—New research on respiratory diseases and creation of a system of regional centers for research and public education on arthritis.

—Establishments of a statewide network of health-information centers.

City Tree Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Trees for city streets were sown in Gov. Rockefeller's message today to the Legislature.

The governor said he would propose a new program within the State Conservation Department to provide trees for municipal beautification.

The governor also recommended making New York City a separate State Park District to facilitate future development by the state of outdoor recreation within that city's limits.

This, he said, would not involve state ownership or maintenance of any existing or presently planned city recreational areas.

Reactivate Base

Restore 2,300 Older Airmen To Flying Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pilot shortage has driven the Air Force into restoring 2,300 older airmen to the cockpit while abandoned in 1960-61, a Pentagon source said today.

An Air Force spokesman confirmed the 2,300 figure while noting that the Pentagon has denied officially the existence of a pilot shortage.

To Train 3,247

Even so, the Air Force announced Tuesday a program to train 3,247 pilots annually, an increase of 487 over the present rate. It also announced the reactivation of Randolph Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex., as the ninth pilot training base.

To man the ninth base, the Air Force has been authorized an additional 891 officers, 2,472 enlisted men and 766 civilian employees. The Air Force estimates cost of the expanded program at $300 million over the next five years.

All of the Air Force's 2,300 aging airmen — most are on their third war — are 45 years old, or older, and held flight status for 22 years, or longer, before stepping down in the big pilot curtailment program of 1960-61.

The Air Force spokesman said some grandfathers are among these older airmen. He told of one who is flying a twin engine C47 cargo plane in Vietnam while his son flies an F4 Phantom fighter from the same airfield.

To meet pilot needs, especially for the multiple engine cargo planes, the Air Force reportedly has striped its middle-management echelon of nearly all men who once held a pilot rating and who can still pass a flight physical.

Body Identified

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A body found Monday in the 250-foot-deep Niagara River gorge by two teen-aged boys was that of Miss Virginia D. DeDario, 43, of Niagara Falls, a coroner says.

Oscar H. Bell Jr., Niagara County coroner, ruled the death of Miss DeDario, who lived alone, a suicide. She was reported missing Oct. 10 by a friend, he said.

The decomposed body was found while the boys were climbing rocks on the U.S. side of the gorge, police said. Miss DeDario apparently plunged from a ledge of the gorge near the Rainbow Bridge, linking the U.S. and Canada, they added.

This had left the support of air operations in many instances in the hands of nonfliers with little Air Force experience. Some of these new managers, the spokesman said, are first lieutenants.

Navy Setup Uncertain

In 1963 as part of its career management program, the Pentagon set up the so-called 45-22 club. Members of this club could at age 45, and after 22 years of jockeying aircraft, step into desk jobs and still retain their flight pay.

Whether the Navy is to get an increased pilot training program still is uncertain. Navy sources have reported the training of only 279 carrier qualified pilots annually, but say the need is around 750.

The subject of pilot shortages is to be investigated by the Senate, headed by Sen. C. John Stennis, D-Miss., shortly after Congress reconvenes.

The subcommittee already has in hand reports that the Army is short of helicopter pilots.

The over-all pilot need in all the services has been placed by some sources as high as 8,000. It takes about 18 months and $500,000 to turn out a fully qualified jet pilot.

HENRY C. HUETTINGER

Former Resident Elected Mayor in New Jersey Town

On Sunday, Jan. 1, Henry C. Huettinger, a native Kingstonian was sworn in as mayor of the Borough of New Milford, N. J.

Huettinger was born in Kingston Oct. 5, 1926 and is the son of Paula J. Huettinger and the late Henry W. Huettinger. His mother now resides in New Milford.

Mayor Huettinger completed his elementary school education in public school No. 2 in this city, and graduated from Kingston High School in 1943.

After serving in the Navy during World War II, he entered Pace College in New York City where he received his BBA degree in accounting. He is a certified public accountant of the state of New Jersey and a partner in the accounting firm of Graff, Bogert and Seco in Oradell, N. J. (a neighboring community of New Milford.)

After serving 11 years as a councilman in New Milford, Huettinger was elected mayor during the November elections. He has been active in many local activities and is a past president of the Lions Club, Little League, and the New Milford Republican Club.

Huettinger is married to Rosemary Cahill, formerly of 135 Ten Broeck Avenue. She is the daughter of Frances Cahill of 198 Main Street, Kingston and the late Alexander E. Cahill.

Mayor Huettinger and his wife now reside at 555 Princeton Street, New Milford, with their five children, Lynn, Eric, Alec, Jean and Jody.

Viet Produces Own GI Slang

SAIGON (AP) — The Green Beans came out of the boonies last week for Bob Hope's show and the word for the Hollywood round eyes was "something else again."

Like all the rest of America's 20th-century wars, the Vietnam conflict is producing its own GI slang.

Foot soldiers who were doughboys in World War I and doughnuts in World War II are grunts or ground pounders in Vietnam.

Zapped or Waxed

The wild blue vander types of 1941-45 and the jet jockeys of Korea are zoomies or Steve Casualties are seldom killed; they are zapped, waxed, get their plows cleaned or get schnitzled. They may be dinged but rarely are wounded.

Atomic age troops in Vietnam prefer affirmation or negatron to yes or no.

The American buildup in Vietnam began with retreat afoot from previous wars. Boondocks described the bush or any obscure location. It later became boonies and now shows signs of reverting to World War II's tules.

Some twisting of the language grows out of boredom with repetition. A few GIs prefer balloon to platoon and corpse to corporal. Drinking water is referred to as potable, as in "give me a glass of potable."

Other slang is functional or, in the case of the F105 Thunderchief, malfunctional. A series of crashes by the jet fighter-bomber earned it the title thud. The two-seat model is known as double thud.

The most widely used single phrase is still "sorry 'bout that." Heard here for almost two years, it is stenciled on caps and shirts, used as explanation or apology and is the title of a book of war humor.

Even Language Raided

The difficult tonal language of Vietnam has been raided by American soldiers for suitable expressions. "Tro oi" (pronounced "choi oi") is loosely translated as

"Oh, My God!" and has become a universal exclamation. "Di di" (pronounced "dee dee") means go. It sometimes is used as "di di it up" or "let's di di the hell out of here." "Dien Cai Dau" (pronounced "dinky dinky") means crazy.

U.S. troops and some Vietnamese rate people or objects by the numbers. "No. 1" is the very best; "No. 10" designates a "cheap Charlie" or some other disliked item. Nobody seems to use any of the numbers in between.

Some troops express sarcasm with "real fine" or "outstanding." "Something else again" is high praise, used, for example, in referring to a particularly well endowed Hollywood starlet. Roundeye is the GI term for a western girl.

Robertson Bids For Batman Spot To Impress Child

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A busy, popular actor rarely admits he begged for a bit part in a television series. Cliff Robertson, who played young John F. Kennedy in the movie "PT 109", boasts about it.

A few months ago Robertson treated his daughter Stephanie, 7, to a visit to the "Batman" set. On the way home she looked her father over thoughtfully and remarked: "I never knew you knew such important people."

"I went to see Bill Dozier, the 'Batman' producer the next day," said Robertson. "I said I had a problem. 'Yes, I know,' Dozier answered. 'You want a cameo role in the show.'"

On Show With Bride
"I looked surprised, and then he said that almost all actors with young children had the same problem. Anyway he worked out a little something — it took about a day — so I could impress my child. I don't quite know when I will be seen — briefly — in an episode."

Robertson recently married actress Dina Merrill. They will appear together tonight — 10-11 EST — in ABC's adaptation of John D. MacDonald's short story, "The Trap of Solid Gold."

Robertson, in his early 40s, is primarily interested in his booming film career, and works in television only as an occasional performer who can pick his spots and material.

Robertson has been doing well for about 10 years, but he says that "the Kennedy thing was just great for me because it focused national attention and generated a lot of publicity."

"Whether you like it or not, publicity certainly helps a performer get the kind of roles he wants."

CBS, in its second annual current events quiz for television viewers, Tuesday night probed about 30 questions on last year's news that ranged broadly from Vietnam to the Warren report to the moon's surface.

There will also be an on-camera auction of a painting donated by the artist at a New York gallery with the proceeds going toward the rescue of Florentine art damaged by recent floods.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I do not know if the coming generations will ever see a world free of wars. The League of Nations and the U.N. have not found a workable solution. Professional politicians have tried all sorts of ways of spending taxpayers' money for foreign aid, while there is need for help right here in no doubt each of the 50 states. Little did the men who fought the Revolution stemming from "Taxation Without Representation" think it would turn out as it did in years to come.

Right here in Kingston, which was the first capital of New York State, the patriots fought for the freedoms of a man's home is his castle, and other causes which are now taken away by the so called do-gooder politicians. These "give money away" jobs and "take away property" doing localities so far, very little good, continue because of good salaries, as more and more are put on payrolls, and more millions are spent. Only time will know the results. 1967 should be an interesting year for Kingston and Ulster County. The patriots of the Revolution had so little to work with would no doubt be astounded if they could see what is going on now.

I do not know if records will be as closely kept of local men in recent wars, but Civil War was reported well in the various local newspapers and Will Plant of Marlboro, using this material, wrote a book of some 165 pages called Banners and Bugles. It is a record of Ulster County and the Mid-Hudson region of the Civil War, compiled with the cooperation of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors. It is published by the Centennial Press, Marlboro, in 1963. A list is given of the men who served from the various towns, when they enlisted and other information.

The Civil War where sometimes brother fought brother, because of a state line brought no end of misery to both victor and loser. For instance, the July 1864 draft called for no less than a half a million men on the Federal side to provide huge armies with replacements in hundreds of regiments that had suffered severely in Virginia, Georgia and South Carolina campaigns. Substitutes and volunteers were paid cash bounties of $300 and $400 each. In 1862 from Esopus, a population of 4,734, they wanted 47 men. Rosendale had 2,926, they wanted 28 men and so on.

Mr. Plank has columns on various regiments like Bugle Notes of the 80th Regiment. "James Ostrander of Rondout was discharged from the 80th in Nov. 1862 because of disability. He was wounded at Antietam in September after having been in four previous engagements. . . Surgeon Robert Loughran of Kingston, who had served as assistant in the 20th Militia before going in the 80th was appointed Brigade Surgeon Nov. 26th, 1862 by Gen. Paul. He was discharged in 1866 after having been made Bvt. Lt. Colonel."

I am sure those who feel their ancestors have lived here since and before the Civil War would find this book most interesting. In Bugle Notes of the 120th Regiment, they mention Henry Gosman of Rondout who was discharged in July 1865 after 22 months in the Navy. During the last year he served on the Pawnee at Charleston, S. C. Perhaps in years to come books will be written about local men and women serving in recent wars. This book gives a sort of personality to each man who served and where he was from in this locality.

Cablevision Service

16 1/2 Andrew Street
Kingston, New York
January 1st, 1961

Editor, The Freeman

If a merchant asked you the full price for a piece of damaged merchandise would you pay it? I doubt it. Yet, we have in Kingston an outfit that provides extremely poor service and demands full payment and apparently has the city's blessing. I refer to Kingston Cablevision, Inc.

We allow for difficulty once in awhile. It is bound to happen. However, this outfit seems to have transmission difficulty most of the time. Call them and what happens? The phone is taken off the hook and laid on the table for a minute and then put back on the receiver. You never get to talk to anyone. This happened to several people on New Year's Eve. Such indifference and callousness on the part of a public service private enterprise is intolerable.

I urge the mayor and the Common Council to investigate this outfit and either straighten it out or kick it out of the city and give the franchise to an organization with integrity. In the meantime I urge all subscribers who are dissatisfied with the service provided by Kingston Cablevision, Inc. to make only partial monthly payments and to clearly mark their payment checks "For abbreviated service for the month of". Perhaps this, if all unhappy subscribers cooperate, will help to get this bunch on the ball and give us better service. If you go on paying for bad service they will just sit back fat. And you can bet the service will get worse. If it does it will be your own fault.

Sincerely,
DON OCKER

Shuffleboard

There are indications that the game of shuffleboard came from Great Britain about the 13th century. It was known there as "shove groat" and "slide groat." The groat was an English coin worth fourpence and the trick was to shove the coin nearest to a goal line.

Leonardo da Vinci designed a tank which he called a "secure and covered chariot with guns."

State Will Free Madeline Webb From Detention

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — One-time showgirl Madeline Webb, an Oklahoma girl who tried for a Broadway career but who landed behind bars in a murder conspiracy with her boyfriend, will be freed Monday, the State Parole Board says.

Miss Webb, now 53, was convicted in 1942 and sentenced to life imprisonment. Gov. Rockefeller commuted the sentence before Christmas in a traditional gesture of executive clemency.

Tried Show Business
Miss Webb, a native of Oklahoma and a graduate of Oklahoma A&M, went to New York

City in 1939 to try for a show-business career. She met and began living with a wife-deserter who made a living extorting jewels from rich women.

She was convicted for her part in making a telephone call to Mrs. Susan Reich, a Polish emigre, and luring her to a hotel where Miss Webb's boyfriend, Eli Shonbrun, and a pal, John B. Cullen, awaited. Mrs. Reich was suffocated and robbed of a $1,500 diamond ring.

Died in Chair

After the crime, which occurred March 2, 1942, Shonbrun and Cullen died in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison.

A spokesman for the Parole Board, which had recommended clemency for Miss Webb, said Tuesday she would have a job and residence in Oklahoma after her release from Westfield State Farm for women at Bedford Hills. Oklahoma authorities have accepted supervision for her parole.

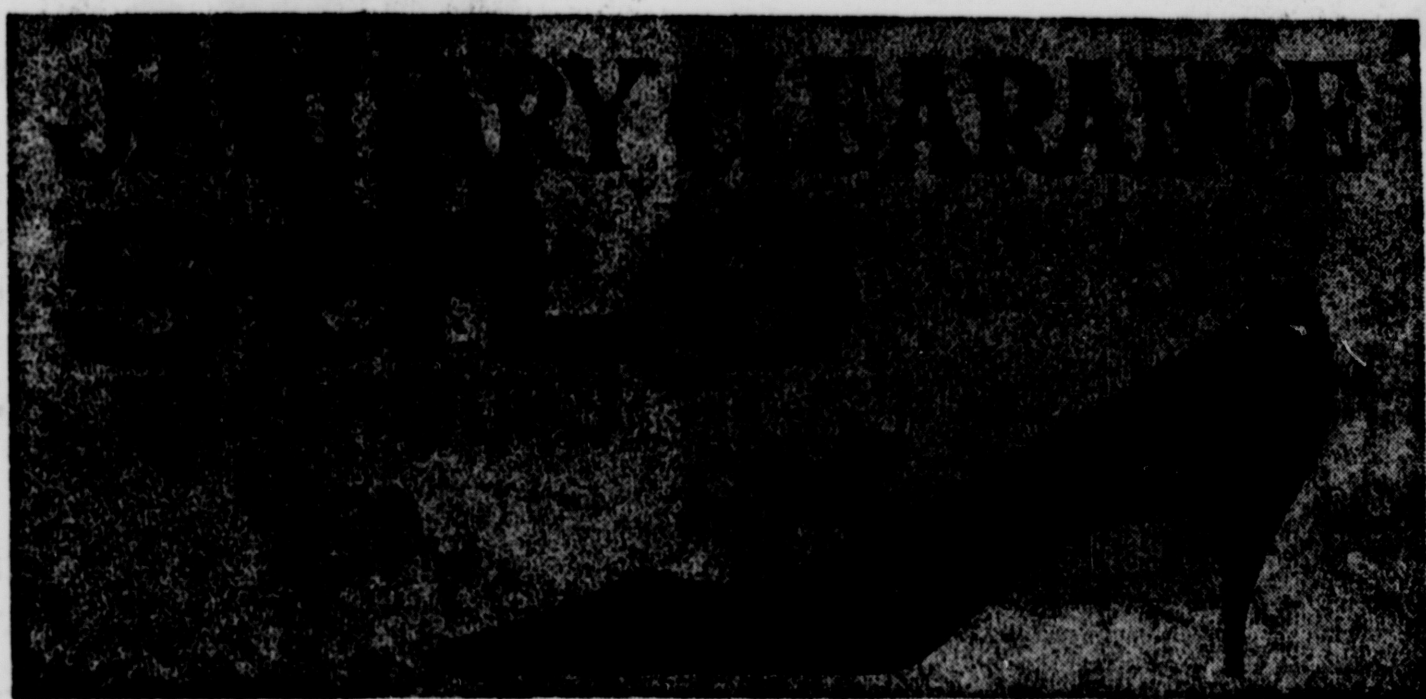

Miss Webb was credited for reorganizing the prison library at Westfield and helping others in using it.

Ulster Board Organizes, Notes $67.40 Tax Rate

The town board of the Town of Ulster held its organization meeting Jan. 2, at 11 a. m. at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall, at which time Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, who was concluding the first year of his term, reviewed the activities of the board for the past year and outlined a program for the coming year.

After opening the meeting with the pledge of allegiance and prayer, Supervisor Musialkiewicz was elected chairman of the meeting by the town board members and he extended greetings for the new year to the members of the board and the residents of the town on behalf of the members of the town board.

Calls '66 Successful

Prior to the meeting the town clerk administered the oath of office to Councilman Anthony Biorcia, who unopposed at the last election, was reelected to office in November.

Supervisor Musialkiewicz said he felt 1966, his first year in office, had been a successful one and among the accomplishments of the town board during the past year he mentioned the purchase of property for a new storage tank in the Ulster Water District expansion program, the letting of a contract to Baker Brothers for completion of connections to the tank's site and noted connection work was practically completed and that the Water tower would be completed in the spring. Other accomplishments for the year was the joint agreement with the town superintendent of highways and the town board for the reconstruction of the entrance to Whittier Development; establishment of two new voting districts, bringing the number of districts to a total of nine in the town.

Start on Park

He also mentioned the adoption of the New York State Building code and adoption of a town ordinance governing the code; the start of the park development program on the 68-acre tract of land on the Hudson River and the acquisition of State funds to compensate town residents who worked two months on development of the park under the State Division of Youth program; adoption of the State law under which certain citizens 65 years of age or over will receive a 50 per cent reduction in taxes; the erection of a new directional sign at the Route 28 traffic circle directing traffic to the Uptown Business area to be acquired through the efforts of the Ulster town board.

Supervisor Musialkiewicz also expressed his thanks and appreciation to the town board for its continued cooperation and also the town highway superintendent, superintendent of the Ulster Water District, the town clerk, collector, assessors, welfare officers and the Planning Board for their achievements, stating that the results obtained could not have been accomplished without the support of all concerned. He urged that this support be continued through 1967 in order that good government and the town's welfare might be continued into the coming year.

Named as depositories for town funds, the board allocated to the State of New York National Bank the monies of the General Fund, Ulster Water District, Special Districts, Tax Fund and Whittier Sewer District funds. To the Kingston Trust Company the board allocated the Trust Fund monies, Ulster Water District bond and anticipation fund, the Ulster Water District construction fund.

The Kingston Daily Freeman was designated as the official paper in which all town notices will be published.

Pay Days Designated

Pay day for elected officials was designated as the last day of each month and pay days for appointed town officials and Highway employees will be the 15th and last day of each month.

The board accepted the Town Highway budget of $139,067.66. The amount of taxes to be raised is $132,635.80.

Mrs. Alma M. Macholdt, town clerk was appointed registrar of vital statistics. Mrs. Rose Peters Krom was re-appointed welfare officer of the town at a salary of $1,200 a year.

Others Named

Named confidential secretary was Margaret Burger and Joseph Lohmeyer was named chairman of the board of assessors. Reappointed as superintendent of the Ulster Water District was Abram Winchell, who was also named superintendent of the Whittier Sewer District. Assisting Winchell as assistant superintendent Robert Henninger.

Manuel E. Emanuel was appointed as Planning consultant to work with the Planning Board and Geraldine Costello was named secretary to the Planning Board. Shirley Wilmoth was appointed deputy town clerk and registrar. Joseph Olberding was named Building Inspector and Multiple Building Inspector at a salary of $1,200 a year.

The town board designated the first Thursday of each month as the regular meeting night. The meetings will be convened at 7:30 p. m. at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

Return As Historians

School guards named for the three school districts are Thelma Felton, Mary Stokes and Laura Watzka. Reappointed as historians were Bruce Burgher and Mrs. Michael Maxon.

Notice was also given members of the town board as to the total tax money to be received by the tax collector. This is $785,777.43. Amount to be received by the supervisor for town operations, which include the General, Highway and Special Districts $295,735.46. It was noted that the tax rate will be $67.40, exclusive of the special district tax.

The County General charge to the town will be $43,082 per $1,000 of assessed valuation; County Highway charge will be $14,331 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Special District charges will be: East Kingston Fire $4,511; East Kingston Light District $12,352; Ulster Fire District No. 1, $9,222; Ulster Fire No. 5, District $7,976. Mr. Marion-Ruby Fire District $6,728; Ulster Water District $12,182; Eddyville Fire Protection District $6,385; Whittier Sewer District $28,878; Ulster-Ontario Fire District $2,448; Albany Avenue Light District $1,939 and Whittier Sewer District $4,360.

It was also noted that the new Building Code went into effect on Jan. 1, 1967, and anyone who expects to do any construction in the town may now receive an application blank at the office of the town clerk.

Bishop Sets Up Office to Deal With City Woes

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, newly appointed bishop of the Rochester Roman Catholic Diocese, has formed what he believes is the first diocesan office in the country to deal with inner-city problems.

The bishop also announced Tuesday that a 36-year-old priest and member of a militant civil rights group will head the office beginning Jan. 25.

He is the Rev. P. David Finks, assistant pastor of Immaculate Conception church here, and a member of FIGHT a civil rights group.

Father Finks will bear the title of episcopal vicar of urban ministry for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Rochester.

The appointment was the first to be made by Bishop Sheen since he took charge of the diocese Dec. 15.

In a letter to Father Finks, the bishop, known nationally because of his television programs, pledged an active search for ways to relieve the plight of slum neighborhoods.

AP Bares Final Money Offer to Wire Service

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press Tuesday night announced its final money offer to the wire service local of the American Newspaper Guild, proposing a two-year agreement to pay top-scale newsmen a minimum of $200 weekly in the first year and $207 weekly in the second.

The offer was made public after mediator George Papp called an open negotiation session to let both sides disclose their positions.

The Guild rejected the offer and made a counterproposal which The Associated Press agreed to be 80 per cent above the company offer in the first year and more in the second year.

The Guild proposed top newsmen minimums of $205 immediately, $212 on Jan. 1, 1968, and $224 weekly on July 1, 1968.

The contract expired at midnight Saturday, but was extended until midnight Saturday, Jan. 7, at the request of the mediator.

The Guild previously announced its membership had authorized the negotiating committee to call a strike if settlement was not attained.

General increases in the company proposal ranged from $3 to $7 weekly in the first year and from $2.50 to $6 in the second for employees not affected by the newsmen minimums.

The federal grand jury said Tuesday that Garach had used the name Gregory Roman in Canada. He was described by the magazine as a graduate of the University of Illinois.

Pentagon Denies Deliberate Hit Of Nam Dinh

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has officially denied that U.S. planes deliberately bombed civilian areas of Nam Dinh, North Vietnam's third largest city.

The statement was contained in a Defense Department letter to Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., that amounts to an official rebuttal of some portions of a New York Times dispatch about U.S. bombing of the city.

Dated Dec. 30 and made public Tuesday night, the letter was signed by Phil G. Goulding, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs. It came in response to Reid's request for a restatement of U.S. policy on bombing and targeting in North Vietnam in light of recent Times' dispatches reporting widespread civilian deaths and damage.

Harrison E. Salisbury, a Times' assistant managing editor, said in one dispatch from Hanoi last week that U.S. planes have systematically attacked nonmilitary targets including a textile plant and dikes in Nam Dinh, killing 89 persons. He added: "No American communiqué has asserted that Nam Dinh contains some facility that the United States regards as a military objective."

Goulding said this statement "is without accuracy." He added: "The New York Times simply did not take the time to search the matter themselves or, indeed, to ask our assistance."

The Times, however, said in today's editions that before Salisbury's dispatch was published Dec. 27 "it was read to Defense Department officials."

"In a statement printed in the same issue of the New York Times," the newspaper said, "administration officials conceded for the first time that American bombing raids against North Vietnam were accidentally causing damage to civilian areas."

"The officials also said that there were military targets in Nam Dinh and that American aircraft had repeatedly bombed them."

Report Recovery Of 8 Paintings Worth $7 Million

LONDON (AP) — Eight paintings worth $7 million, stolen five days ago in the world's biggest art theft, were reported today recovered intact.

Three of the old masters were found in what was believed a professional robbers' den and others in a parcel behind a clump of bushes not far from London's Dulwich College Gallery where they were stolen Friday, police informants said.

No Details Given

Scotland Yard announced the recovery of the paintings but declined to give details. Detectives were still questioning some men in connection with the theft, the Yard said.

The paintings — three Rembrandts, three Rubens and one each by Gerald Dou and Adam Elsheimer — were reported to be in good condition despite exposure to frosty air. Some of the paintings were damaged slightly, officials said.

Scotland Yard insiders said three of the paintings were found Monday at a hideout which contained a hoard of other stolen property and some weapons.

They said an anonymous telephone call led detectives Tuesday night to Streatham Common, about four miles from Dulwich Gallery in South London, where the remaining five paintings were found in some bushes.

All World Famous

One of the Rembrandts was the "Girl at a Window," said to be worth $2.8 million. All the Rembrandts and Rubens were world famous.

Scotland Yard, announcing that the paintings had been recovered, said they were identified by the curator of the gallery.

The paintings were stolen Friday night from the college art gallery, the oldest public gallery in Britain.

It was the biggest art theft in history.

Police said they recovered Rembrandt's "Girl at a Window" and his portrait of his son Titus as well as the "Three Graces" by Rubens on Monday night. The other five paintings were found Tuesday night.

All the paintings were recovered in London. Officials said some were damaged but the damage was comparatively slight.

The announcement of the recovery did not say how the paintings were traced or whether anyone had been arrested.

Scotland Yard announced earlier that several persons were being questioned.

The Yard did not announce the recovery of the first three paintings for fear the thieves might destroy the others.

A hoard of other stolen property and some weapons were found with some of the paintings.

Scotland Yard said inquiries were continuing in an attempt to establish the identity of the art thieves.

Planes Take . . .

More Than Half Hit

Pilots claimed they destroyed 13 barges and 3 junks and damaged 64 barges and 21 junks, scoring hits on more than half of the 200 watercraft attacked.

Navy Phantom jet pilots attacked a North Vietnamese torpedo boat 23 miles east of Hanoi and reported their rockets left the PT boat with two fires burning on it.

Other carrier pilots used rockets to strike at a missile radar site southeast of Thanh Hoa and reported damaging the site.

In all, U. S. Navy pilots flew 51 strike missions over North Vietnam Tuesday. Air Force pilots added another 26 missions, hitting at oil depots, staging areas and roads in the southern panhandle.

Scots From Phantoms

Only one Communist MIG1, ventured forth during Tuesday's forays, a U. S. spokesman said. He said the MIG "scooted away" when a flight of F4 Phantom jets closed in and there was no contact.

The spokesman disclosed that one of the Phantom fighters involved in Monday's big air battle sustained light damage. Previously, U. S. officials announced that all the U.S. planes escaped unscathed when they noted that all the U. S. planes shot down seven MIG1s for the biggest single day's bag of the war. The spokesman said one of the more than 50 Phantoms in the Monday battle flew through fragments of a disintegrating MIG and sustained minor damage but made it safely back to base.

In air action over South Vietnam Tuesday, U. S. pilots flew 288 strikes sorties and South Vietnamese pilots flew 78.

On the ground, South Vietnamese troops killed 32 Viet Cong in four separate actions, two of them in the Mekong Delta and the other two within 38 miles of Saigon.

Officials said the two Americans and the Philippine woman released by the Viet Cong were identified as Thomas R. Scales, 44, of Matamoros, Pa.; Robert W. Monahan, 41, of Bellport, Long Island, N.Y.; and Ophelia Giza wife of an Air America employee.

Disappeared Last May

The Viet Cong radio announced Tuesday night that Scales and Monahan would be released. They disappeared May 27, 1966, while en route to Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon. Their Jeep was found later.

The Red broadcast said the Americans had asked for leniency and that the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, had granted their request as a New Year's present.

Vietnamese and U.S. officials reported 30 Vietnamese civilians were killed by Viet Cong terrorists' activity last week. They said 68 more civilians were wounded and 44 kidnapped in the week ending last Saturday.

The killed and wounded included several village and hamlet officials. One of the wounded was a prominent member of the South Vietnamese Constitutional Assembly who was injured when a grenade exploded under his car.

Bare New Terrorism

Officials also reported several fresh acts of Viet Cong terrorism.

They said six Viet Cong shot to death today the chief of a hamlet about 10 miles north of Saigon.

In another incident, police said Viet Cong terrorists killed two national policemen in Saigon and left one of them with a two-inch nail imbedded in his forehead.

The Vietnamese army announced that 146 of its men were killed in action and 14 wounded during the week.

Figures released today by well-informed sources indicated that only 55 to 60 per cent of South Vietnam is under secure government control.

The Viet Cong hold 17 to 20 per cent and the rest is contested, these sources said.

South Vietnam had 732,209 persons under arms as of Nov. 30, 1966, sources said.

These included 282,426 in the Vietnamese army, 14,465 in the air force, 17,250 in the navy and 7,167 marines. There were 149,194 in the regional forces and

A well known Kingston resident who has been prominent in area music circles for the past 40 years died suddenly this morning. He was Albert A. Rossi, 61, of 220 Clifton Avenue.

Born in Fall River, Mass., a son of the late Louis and Annie Blanchette Rossi, he came to Kingston in 1925 with the Jimmy Connor theater orchestra. During vaudeville days he played at the theater on Wall Street and later at the Broadway Theater.

At the time of his death he owned Rossi's Music Store at 49 North Front Street. He had operated the store for many years, first on John Street and later at the North Front Street location.

A trumpeter, Mr. Rossi gave private instruction as well as assisting many area drum corps as born instructor and music arranger.

He had been associated with the famous Troop 12 Indians Boy Scout Drum Corps since the early 1950's as music instructor. He arranged all music for the corps from 1950 to 1964. Mr. Rossi started the Boy Scout Drum Corps in Ellenville in 1964 and was influential in the formation of the VFW Red Devils Drum Corps in the late 1950's.

Other corps he was identified with include the former Port Ewen Cavaliers and the Tivoli Drum Corps.

Devoted to music, Mr. Rossi had played with the Harry Maisenholder dance orchestra in recent years. He and his son Myron, also a trumpeter, were featured in the summer concerts by the Kingston Concert Band under the direction of Marlin Morrette.

Was Union Officer

Mr. Rossi was a member and one time vice president of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians and held membership in Poughkeepsie Local 238.

Surviving are his wife, the former Alice Silkworth; a son, Myron Rossi; two grandchildren, Tamara and Keith Rossi; four sisters, Mrs. Louis (Josephine) Gragnani, Mrs. Joseph (Eva) Costa, Mrs. George (Annie) Cote and Mrs. Maurice (Phoebe) Canuel, all of Fall River, Mass. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Funeral services will be held at the Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home, 411 Albany Avenue, Saturday 2 p. m. The Rev. David C. Gaise, D.D., pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will officiate. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery. Report Siamese Twins, 54, Fair To Good Shape

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — Margaret and Mary Gibb, 54-year-old Siamese twins, are reported in "fair to good" condition at Holyoke Hospital for treatment of an undisclosed ailment.

Hospital officials said Tuesday the sisters were admitted last Friday.

The unmarried sisters are joined at the base of the spine and share the same blood supply. They have separate organs and do not feel each other's pain.

Margaret has twice undergone operations, in 1946 for removal of a stone from her bladder and in 1953 for a tumor removal.

The twins performed in vaudeville and with circuses during the 1930's in Europe and America. They returned to their native Holyoke in 1941 and opened a gift shop in their home.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says Latin-American nations participating in the Alliance for Progress have shown progress in industry, economy, finances, education and housing.

It also reported spotty improvement in coffee and cocoa prices, an increased flow of U.S. private capital to Central and South America and a halt in the deterioration in the foreign debt positions.

149,177 in the popular forces or militia. Other figures show 35,504 in the civilian irregular defense group, 21,222 armed combat youth and 55,804 police.

Upstater Pulled From Tex. Perch, 'Sick of Army'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A New York soldier who climbed to a precarious perch on an eight-story building because he "didn't like the Army" was in military custody today.

Firemen and police officers pulled Pfc. Wilford H. Poulin III, 22, of Rensselaer, N.Y., from the downtown structure Tuesday night after a passerby spotted him from the street below.

Poulin told officers he climbed the building because he was "sick of the Army."

Police and firemen leaned over a ledge to grab Poulin and put him in a wire basket, which was lowered to the ground. He is stationed here at Ft. Sam Houston.

His home address was listed as 104 Wayne St.

Places entered were the Leon Wilber & Son, Inc., oil plant, Dixon Garden Center, Kingston Music Center adjoining the Dixon building, Fallsburgh Bottling Works, Inc., and Spiegel Brothers Paper Company.

Investigation of five weekend burglaries reported at Albany Avenue Extension business establishments was continued today by Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers of Kingston State Police.

Nothing was reported taken from the bottling works, and at the paper company office about $60 was reported missing from an office safe. The intruders knocked off the combination dial of the safe before finding that the safe was not locked.

Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman and Investigator Richard Ryan took part in the investigation.

Gollnick Named By Fire-Fighters

Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461, AFL-CIO, recently held its election of officers for 1967. Elected president was Robert Gollnick. President Gollnick succeeds Floyd Finch who served two terms as president.

Gerard Kelder Jr. was re-elected to his second term as vice-president. Also reelected for second terms were Lt. Hugh Greer as secretary, and Edward Cogswell, treasurer. Ronald Diamond was elected for a three-year term as trustee.

The newly elected officers of Local 461 plan to make 1967 a year of real progress for Kingston's fire fighters.

At the present time the fire fighters of Local 461 are seeking coverage under the New York State Hospitalization Plan and have had the Common Council pass this request for coverage under Section 84 of the New York State Retirement System.

At present in the Common Council's committee is a request for adoption of a model local law granting the fire fighters "Collective Bargaining and Arbitration." It is hoped that the Council will act immediately upon the Local Law which, when adopted, will set up the means to resolve any possible grievances which might arise and also cover any negotiations concerning salaries and other factors beneficial to the Kingston Fire Fighters Local 461.

Safe Jobs Fizzle, But Damage High

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP) — Burglars failed to break into two safes overnight and caused damage estimated at more than $3,000 at two business establishments, State Police said today.

Troopers said they damaged the interior of the Hornell Steel & Welding Service building, several office machines and sprayed paint on walls and desks. The damage was put at $2,000.

The burglars also smashed two overhead doors and destroyed a $1,000 adding machine-computer at Ray Hale's used-car lot, troopers said.

Their loot totaled $3 from a vending machine at Hornell Steel and $75 at the used-car lot, police said.

Rev. Leo Brady Dies

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—The Rev. Leo P. Brady, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Crescent, north of here, died Tuesday in Leonard Hospital, Troy. He was 60.

Father Brady had served Roman Catholic parishes in Troy, Albany, Schenectady, Amsterdam, Canajoharie, St. Johnsville, Granville, Berlin and the Hague, all in this same general area of eastern New York. He was taken to the hospital after becoming ill at the Crescent rectory.

Msgr. Quaid Dies

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — The Right Rev. Monsignor Edward G. Quaid, former pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church here, died today at the church rectory, where he had been living since his retirement in 1964. He was 84.

Monsignor Quaid was a native of Limerick, Ireland.

Mark Anniversary Of U. S.-Panama Clash
PANAMA (AP) — The Panamanian government has issued an executive decree for memorial observances next Monday to mark the Jan. 9, 1964, clash between Panamanians and U.S. Army troops which left 21 persons dead.

The clash along the Canal Zone boundary line in Panama City and Colon stemmed from a display of the Panamanian flag in the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal Zone. Students marched across the boundary line, and one of them, Ascanio Arosemena, was killed.

Violence mounted and U.S. troops were called out to patrol the boundary. For three days shots were exchanged between the American forces and Panamanians. The toll was 17 Panamanians and four U.S. servicemen killed and scores wounded and injured.

A cease-fire was worked out by the Organization of American States, but the crisis led Panama to break relations with the United States. Relations subsequently have been resumed and the two governments are now negotiating a new canal treaty.

The memorial observances will include flying the Panamanian flag at half staff and the laying of wreaths at the graves of victims of the clash.

A faun was a half-human god of the woods and herds of Roman mythology.

Score Prejudicial Conduct of DAs In Western N. Y.
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — An appeals court has served notice to district attorneys in Western New York it will not tolerate what it describes as "prejudicial conduct" by them during trials.

"We now give notice to district attorneys...that conduct of this type will result in reversals by this court and the granting of new trials," the Appellate Division, fourth department, said. "Justice requires this."

The court, in a recent opinion, was critical of Dist. Atty. Lorton G. Whiteman of Steuben County in connection with his prosecution of William P. Dunn of Corning on charges of third-degree burglary, attempted third-degree burglary and unlawful entry.

It cited Whiteman's questioning of a witness concerning the meeting of Dunn and Albert Eckert, a former co-defendant who had pleaded guilty.

The court also criticized Whiteman's summation, describing it as "not only unfair and unjust but so prejudicial as to require a new trial."

Of County Judge Alton J. Wightman, the court said that in Whiteman's charge he "more or less put his character in issue and this, of course, was also prejudicial."

The Appellate Division continued in its unanimous opinion: "There has been too much of this type of conduct recently in this department. Some prosecutors seem to feel that procuring a conviction is of paramount importance without justice."

Dunn was convicted of third-degree burglary and sentenced by Wightman to serve 15 years to life in prison as a fourth felony offender.

The appeals court reversed the conviction and ordered a new trial.

Ruby Describes Oswald Shooting On Tape as Blur
NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Ruby said in a tape-recorded conversation less than a month before his death that his fatal shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald "happened in such a blur that before I knew it I was down on the ground. The officers had me on the ground."

In the tape-recorded conversation with his brother, Earl, Ruby was asked if he knew Oswald before, and he replied, "I never have known him or seen him before."

Emotionally Upset
Earl asked him, "Had you ever planned anything like this?"

"I was so emotionally upset for three days," Ruby answered.

"Is there any truth at all to the stories that Oswald had been in your club or anywhere," Earl questioned him.

Ruby, interrupting him, said: "None whatsoever. It's a fabrication."

The conversation, recorded in Ruby's maximum-security room at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas sometime between last Dec. 15 and 18, was made public for the first time Tuesday by Capitol Records at a news conference.

Jack Ruby said that his presence at the Dallas County Jail resulted from his making an "illegal turn" behind a bus and winding up in the jail parking lot.

Twist of Fate
"Had I gone the way I was supposed to go — straight down Main Street — I would never have met this fate," he said.

Jack Ruby said that he always carried a gun with him "because of various altercations I had in my club."

In an exclusive report by Associated Press writer Bernard Gaver Dec. 19, Ruby had said much the same thing. He was described in The Associated Press report as praying that he be given a final lie detector test so that people would be convinced there was no conspiracy involved in his killing of Oswald.

He also maintained then that he never knew Oswald and that the killing was a blank in his mind.

Will Be Recorded
The three-minute tape-recorded conversation will be part of a long-playing record entitled, "The Controversy: The Death and the Warren Report," being produced by Capitol.

Spokesmen for Capitol Records said the taping was made with the help of Earl Ruby who carried a recorder concealed in a dispatch case into the hospital room past police guards.

Capitol Records said Elmer Gertz, Ruby's attorney in Chicago, took part in the arrangements with the family, believing "if the public could hear Ruby's own voice there could be a question that he directly communicated the facts as he remembered them."

Ruby was depicted as desirous that "the world know directly the facts concerning his participation and involvement."

A Capitol Records spokesman said part of the profits from the record would go to the John F. Kennedy Library in Cambridge, Mass.

However, a library spokesman said in a statement: "Capitol Records, Inc., did offer as a donation to the John F. Kennedy Library Corporation a portion of the royalty payable in connection with the Ruby album. The directors of the library corporation do not accept enterprises such as this."

About 400,000,000,000 pounds of rice are produced in the world each year.

Rocky Tells of $2 Billion Bond Need for Transportation

By GERRY McLAUGHLIN
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller asked today for approval of a massive bond issue — said to be at least $2 billion — to meet the public's growing transportation needs.

At the same time, in his annual message to the Legislature, the Republican governor called for creation of a state department to oversee all transportation in New York.

Stresses Need
Rockefeller said the state's growth in agriculture, industry and finance "depends to a crucial extent on coordinated state action on all these many fronts to achieve a balanced state transportation system."

The Republican governor's transportation plans, the bulk of which he had disclosed during his successful campaign for reelection, were outlined in a speech marking the opening of the 1967 legislative session. While a precise estimate of the bond issue Rockefeller contemplated was not available, well-posted sources told the Associated Press it would be at least $2 billion.

The governor said in his message that the approach to transportation problems he envisions would require a bond issue "in an amount sufficient to meet on a balanced basis our urgent transportation investment needs."

Like Pure Water Plan
He likened the proposed bond issue to his $1.7-billion pure water program and said it would allow the state to finance a wide range of transportation projects in anticipation of federal reimbursement.

To administer the program, Rockefeller proposed a new department to "formulate a state-wide plan for a truly balanced transportation system."

He said he would seek creation of a department combining five existing agencies: the Public Works Department, the Motor Vehicle Department, the Office of Transportation, the Traffic Commission and the Bureau of Aviation.

Here are the other highlights of his transportation proposals: WARNING — The governor referred to the recent federal cutback in highway funds and said that, "unless we take decisive action as a state, the reduction could have a 'serious effect' on the completion of such vital roads as:

The Southern Tier Expressway, the Long Island Expressway, the proposed Nu-way (between Ogdensburg and Utica) and arterials in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Yonkers, and New York City.

NEW YORK AREA — He said he would offer legislation to give the powerful Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority, which already runs the Long Island Rail Road, control of mass transportation in the New York metropolitan area.

Assign Responsibility
Specifically, Rockefeller would make the authority responsible for "the policy direction and control" of the New York City Transit Authority — which operates the city's subways and buses — the Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transit Operation Authority and the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority.

It remains to be seen how New York City legislators will respond to plans for consolidating the deficit-ridden Transit Authority and the financially healthy Bridge and Tunnel Authority.

When New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay advanced a consolidation plan last year, he encountered powerful opposition from Chairman Robert Moses of the Triborough Bridge Authority and bondholders of the authority. They feared that merger of the two agencies would shatter the authority's financial solvency.

Would Continue
Rockefeller addressed himself to that reaction in his message. He said his proposal would continue the existing separate agencies "within a holding company type of structure and require that each constituent agency maintain a fare or rate structure sufficient to meet its operating costs."

It was not immediately certain whether the governor meant this would require another increase in New York's 20-cent transit fare — the center of a violent controversy last year when it was raised from 15 cents.

JETPORT — Rockefeller said he had asked the Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority to recommend a location for a fourth major airport in the New York metropolitan region. Federal authorities and New York and New Jersey officials have been trying unsuccessfully to come up with a site agreeable to all interests. Aviation authorities say that greater New York's three major airports are overburdened by

Crash Kills 2 Syracuse Students 5 Others Hurt

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Two students at Syracuse University were killed Tuesday night when their automobile and a tractor-trailer collided on the State Thruway about 10 miles south of here, near the Berkshire Spur interchange.

State Police said the victims were Robert A. Talen, 20, of New Hyde Park, and Miss Karin Fink, 19, of Levittown. They were returning to school, police said.

Five students at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, were injured when their car ploughed into the wreckage.

Three were admitted to Albany Medical Center Hospital in satisfactory condition. They were Josephine Johnson, 18, of Livingston, N.J.; Vickie Laddey, 19, of Sparta, N.J.; and Margaret Nichols, 21, of Staten Island.

Two others, treated for injuries but not admitted, were Lorraine Rork, 21, also of Livingston, and Isabelle Berkhart, 21, of Pompton Place, N.J. Traffic on the superhighway was slowed for nearly two hours while work crews cleared the wreckage.

Talen's address was given as 11 Carline Drive.

Miss Fink's address was listed as 64 Tanager Lane.

Miss Laddey's address is West Shore Trail.

Miss Johnson's home is at 8 Cambridge Rd.

Miss Rork's address is 31 R'wood Dr.

Miss Berkhart's home is at 27 Prospect Ave.

Charged in Slaying

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — A 26-year-old man, who police say returned to an east side tavern with a double-barrel shotgun, is charged with slaying one man and seriously wounding his own brother-in-law.

Police charged Thomas Boyle of Rochester with first-degree murder in the shooting Tuesday night of Arthur Frauel Jr., 32, of Rochester, in Sibby's Tavern. Boyle also wounded his brother-in-law, Lawrence Helfer, 33, of Rochester, police said. Helfer, struck in the chest with buckshot, was reported in poor condition in Genesee Hospital.

Detectives said witnesses told them Helfer and Boyle argued in the tavern about family problems. Frauel had accompanied Helfer to the establishment.

Boyle left the tavern and returned with a 12-gauge shotgun, police said.

Both Helfer and Frauel were shot at close range, detectives said.

Seek Assailant

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Police searched today for a man they say fatally shot Otis Covington, 24, of Rochester, on a city street Tuesday night.

Detectives said they believed the assailant and Covington argued over money.

Police said witnesses told them the assailant, armed with a rifle, chased Covington along a street.

Covington's address was 76 Adams St.

The Greeks were the first people of the Western World to make a study of geography.

traffic and that the danger of collisions grows as more and more planes fly into the region.

FULL CREW Rockefeller said he would submit legislation designed to repeal what he called "the last remaining vestige of the state's archaic full-crew laws."

The law requires that a fireman ride in the cab of locomotives. Railroads contend this is no longer necessary in the age of diesel engines. In 1966, the law was partially repealed, eliminating sections requiring a third brakeman and baggage-man on trains.

London Tries New Hanoi Plea

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam's Foreign Ministry today officially rejected the British proposal for talks to stop the fighting in Vietnam today as a new appeal from London was on its way to Hanoi.

The British call for the U.S. and North and South Vietnamese governments to meet at once had been accepted by the United States and South Vietnam. North Vietnam denounced it as "an impermissible vicious act."

In an official statement, a North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry spokesman called the British proposal "an act full of malicious intention aimed at serving the dark designs of the U.S. aggressors."

Despite earlier rebuffs from official Hanoi newspapers, the British Foreign Office appealed again Tuesday night to North Vietnam to agree to talks.

It said an affirmative response "will commit them simply and solely to joining efforts to lift the burden of war from their country and so creating conditions in which a political settlement could be negotiated."

The North Vietnamese statement appeared to slam the door on the British suggestion first made by Foreign Secretary George Brown Dec. 31.

"By 'calling for peace' at this juncture," Hanoi said, "the British government is precisely dancing to the tune of the United States so that the latter may take new, more serious steps of war escalation."

"The government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam has always held that the U.S. is the aggressor; therefore it must stop its aggression, withdraw all its troops and those of its satellites from South Vietnam, put an end to all acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, and let the Vietnamese people settle their own affairs by themselves," it said.

"Then peace will be restored immediately."

In New York, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg discussed Vietnam with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant Tuesday but Goldberg said he presented no new American plan for ending the war.

The United States has asked Hanoi to take any steps he feels necessary to bring about a cease-fire that might lead to a cease-fire.

Supervisors to Meet

The organization meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors will be held Monday, Jan. 9, at 8 p. m. At that time the members will name a chairman to serve for the year and also make other appointments.

Bluestone Makes Us Blue-Third Copy Uninspired

The most important and interesting thing about Bluestone III, the latest issue of Woodstock's literary quarterly, is that it forces one to view it on its own terms. Editor Loker Riley and associate editor JG Cummings have approached the task of selecting contributors and material for the magazine just as if no one had ever been defeated by the job before. Just as if the hundreds of "little mags" that preceded it or now compete with it never happened.

And so, although their "little mag" has some of the outer aspects of its more recent ancestors or current colleagues (unknown many stories that fail to click after the second paragraph — but an eye-catching cover), it has no particular freshness in its controlling design that makes it unique or quite superior to what you may have been conditioned to expect.

It can be argued that Bluestone III lacks conventional literary appeal only because its youth on the newsstands works against it and it has not yet learned all the lessons that come with experience. It can also be argued that it lacks little except cohesion, a problem that could have been remedied had its 84-page length not been too choppy devoted to too many diverse elements. We have, for example, not only a new version of the story of creation (Adam & Eve & Vipe) but tales of latter day descendants of the Genesis couple (a widow who needs more than Eve's unclothed beauty to welcome a seaweed-scented husband back from death, a Harvard professor who sounds more like a Croton undergraduate as he delves into Karma, Nirvana and Buddhism, a five-year-old boy who talks in terse, five word sentences about eating a banana — the author who created him having seen to many movies about writers who gained fame by eliminating adjectives from their work, a beatnik past his prime still trying to come on like a teen booper as dawn invades a gin mill).

And it is true that these could be valid reasons for the failure of Bluestone III to interest and intrigue. But it is also true that most of the protagonists in these stories seem to lack one vital element — genes. Consequently, in the telling, the stories themselves lack a richness of psychological and physical detail — vitally needed to support their themes.

Wit Sorely Lacking

The editors have not been able to make a virtue of these defects. The issue could have used more straightforward simplicity and a great deal more wit. For the most part, its authors have struggled desperately to invent incidents or attempted to supply sophisticated interpretive explanations of characters and events that simply are not necessary. Language was never meant to be used as many of Bluestone's contributors have used it.

When, for example, Allen Randall says in his short piece, "Last Dance," "The orgasm perched on the divingboard of my soul plunged madly toward the water," no reader can take him seriously. He is reaching too far, so 0-0-0-0-0-0 far out beyond the diving board and into that vast wasteland of literary space that one yearns only to go "on the road" with Kerouac or mend walls with Robert Frost.

There are bound to be things wrong with an enterprise of Bluestone's scope. But such a magazine can compensate for lack of money and dearth of distribution by giving us more than a metaphorical view of life. Life in the raw, folkishness, anything would be preferable to visualizations without scope and speculation without hope.

Previous Issues Better

If we have one, big critical yelp to make about Bluestone III, it is that it lacks the strong, simple imagery of most of the stories in previous issues. The current edition almost seems to invalidate the two which preceded it. Outside of Lawrence Cox's "The Room That Was Always Christmas," not one author absorbed us. And even Cox was a trifle too cute and meandering. Worse, his story lacked the strong conclusion it needed to keep it from being just another carbon copy tale of the decadent South. After all, such things have already been done to a superlative and well-roasted turn by Capote, McCullers, Faulkner and company.

Battle Tanker Fire

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — More than 160 firemen battled four hours early today to control a fire aboard the 10,720-ton tanker Esso Glasgow and to keep the blaze from spreading to the port's refinery, the largest in Europe. Seven firemen were injured.

The tanker, docked alongside the huge Esso refinery at Fawley, was rocked by two explosions 80 minutes apart.

The big port was closed to all shipping at the outbreak of the fire but was reopened to shipping shortly before dawn.

The Esso Glasgow, formerly the Wauhatchie, was built in 1944 at Chester, Pa.

CARL BROWN

Assumes Onteora Principal's Post Later This Month

The appointment of Carl Brown to the position of high school principal at Onteora Central School, will become effective Jan. 16. Brown will take over his new duties on that date, when the present principal Edward S. Witko leaves to assume his new post as assistant superintendent of schools for the Board of Cooperative Educational Services in Tompkins and Seneca Counties.

Witko's resignation was accepted by the OCS Board of Education last month.

Brown has been serving as vice-principal of the high school since 1965. Prior to that, he served as a chemistry teacher on the Onteora faculty; first came to OCS in 1962.

The newly appointed principal holds a bachelor of science degree from Teachers College, East Stroudsburg, Pa., a master of science degree from Syracuse University and has done additional study at Central State College, Wilkes-Barre, Ohio and SUNY, Albany.

Prior to coming to Onteora more than four years ago, he taught biology, chemistry and physics at Middleburg from 1956 to 1962.

To Ask Court Ruling

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Democrat, who was ousted from the newly reappointed Monroe County Legislature the first time it met, says he plans to ask the State Supreme Court to rule on his eligibility.

Phantom Press Books Are Hit In Shops Here

Count as fortunate those Woodstockers who received in their Christmas stockings any or all volumes in the series of fine, miniature art books published by Woodstock's Phantom Press over the past two years. The books, though small, are beautifully executed and make excellent additions to any home library.

Printed in the year just past was the fourth in the series, Rillet, featuring a wide variety of drawings of streams and brooks by Woodstock artist Robert Angelloch. All of the reproductions in the tiny tome are suitable for mounting or framing and evoke memories of rilletts coursing violently on their way in that race of water than begins after the winter's ice and snow has melted. The current edition of Rillet is limited to less than 400 copies, shows Angelloch at his stark best, and is still available at local book stores, until the supply is exhausted.

Phantom Press also produced in 1966 the third in this series, Drawings of Woodstock, which again includes the work of Angelloch, along with that of artists Lon Clark, Richard Crist and Jacques Kupferman, all locally based. Twenty-four drawings by Angelloch make up the book and all found their origin in and around the village of Woodstock in which the four painters live and work.

Local Scenery

Among the easily identifiable landscapes are Simmons Farm in Bearsville, Yankee Point Pond in Wittenberg, the Bearsville Road, California Quarry atop Mead Mountain, Cooper Lake in Lake Hill, Easton Lane near the Art Students League and the former residence of the late artist Eugene Speicher on Lower Byrdcliffe Road. Others include the Daniel Revan house on Route 212, Sully's Pool at the base of Chazy Mountain and the complex of buildings and barns at Parnassus Square. Also a limited edition with only 500 copies in print, the book is for sale locally.

Monhegan is the title of the volume published in 1965 by the Phantom Press. The second of a series, it includes 23 drawings by Angelloch, culled from six visits to the famed isle and originally executed in black ink and crayon between 1960 and 1965. Some 500 copies were printed and reproductions include mountain, forest and beach scenes drawn on the island off the coast of Maine.

Lake Hill Woman Suffers Seizure

Mrs. Douglas S. Eighmey of Sickler Road, Lake Hill was rushed to Benedictine Hospital shortly after 12:30 p. m. after suffering a seizure at her home.

She was taken to the hospital by her husband who was called home from work. Members of the Lake Hill Fire Department went to the woman's aid. Eighmey and his wife were escorted to the hospital from the Kingston traffic circle by a police detail.

Mrs. Eighmey is the daughter-in-law of Police Commissioner and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey of Kingston.

Refer Charges In City Court To Grand Jury

Charges against two defendants were referred to a grand jury in city court today.

One was a second degree assault charge against Ronald Irving Gardner, 21, of 172 West Pierpont Street, who had been on leave from the U.S. Army, and who was arrested early today after reported trouble at the Trailways Restaurant, central Broadway.

Gardner waived preliminary hearing before Judge Hubert A. Richter. He had also been charged with public intoxication and was fined $10 on that count. He was released in his own recognizance after waiving hearing. It was indicated that he was to return to Fort Meade, Md., where he is due for shipment.

A police report shortly after midnight noted trouble at the restaurant as reported by Patrolman Leon Fitzgerald, and other officers were sent to assist. The assault charge was lodged by Fitzgerald to whom the defendant apologized in court today and who consented to release of Gardner in his own recognizance.

A grand larceny charge against Glenn A. Davis, 17, of Merline Avenue, also went to a grand jury after the waiving of hearing. He was charged recently with the theft of a car owned by Alfred Plass, of Stamford, Conn. Police said the car was taken from Clinton Avenue. Attorney S. James Matthews appeared for Gardner and Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher for the prosecution.

Three-Mile Limit

The principle of the "three-mile limit" was first proclaimed by the 18th-century Dutch jurist, Cornelius Van Bynkershoek. This was in 1703, when cannon could shoot a maximum of three miles, hence the three-mile limit.

Rochester Sets Public Hearing For January 9

The regular monthly meeting of the Planning Board of the Town of Rochester was held at the Accord Fire Hall Dec. 12. Among the topics discussed was the application of the Catskill Land Corporation's proposed development of Section 2 of their Granit Estates.

The Town Board of the Town of Rochester, at its meeting Dec. 9, had approved this proposed development as an "Open Area Development," which means that the road into the development will be a private one, and no town maintenance will be provided on it.

In line with this, the Planning Board has set a public hearing for Jan. 9 at 8 p. m. in the Accord Fire Hall, in accordance with Section 276 of the Town Law.

Planning Board Chairman Scribano also presented a prepared statement in regard to what can be done now to insure the best possible use of land in the Township, in order to conserve natural resources and prevent future abuses.

Time Running Out

Hoffa Maintains Grueling Pace on Contract Demands

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, with time fast running out for his final legal efforts to stay out of prison, busied himself today in shaping up nationwide trucking contract demands.

"I guess that's how he stays sane," said a close associate about the grueling work pace maintained by Hoffa despite the eight-year jury tampering sentence hanging over him.

Work Long Hours

Hoffa kept aides working long hours wrapping up final details on wage demands he said will range from five to seven percent for some 500,000 teamsters employees of 12,000 trucking firms.

Contract talks start in Washington Jan. 17, but unless successful in winning a new Supreme Court hearing or a new trial, Hoffa could be in prison before the March 31 contract deadline.

The Supreme Court has already rejected his appeal.

Some Teamsters sources expressed concern that the trucking negotiations might bog down if Hoffa is not around to complete them, but the 53-year-old union chief expressed confidence that a settlement will be reached without a strike. Hoffa added that some trucking firms might have to raise their rates to pay the new labor costs.

Sees Possible Difficulties

One union source, predicting possible difficulties if Hoffa went to prison before negotiations were completed, said "Hoffa has been a one-man show, not because he is autocratic, but because he has been dealing with these employers for so long."

Hoffa told newsmen, "I've talked to about every carrier (truck company) in the countriv." in preparing for the negotiations.

Union sources said no other "mister official, including Fitzsimmons of Detroit, has that close a relationship with the trucking industry."

Sure of Enough Votes to Prevent Powell Seating

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigating subcommittee's criticism of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell can't help but produce more votes to prevent the Harlem Democrat from taking his seat in the new Congress next Tuesday, Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin said today.

Van Deerlin, a California Democrat, has announced that he will ask that Powell stand aside when the other members-elect are sworn in. He said he is sending every House member today an outline of a further proposal to keep Powell from taking his seat while a special committee looks into his qualifications.

The House Administration Committee published Tuesday its subcommittee's finding that Powell used official travel credit cards deceptively.

It said Powell used an assumed name for some of his own travel and that a staff employee, Corinne A. Huff, did likewise. Travel was provided at the expense of the Education and Labor Committee, which Powell heads, for persons unconnected with Congress, the report said.

However, neither the subcommittee nor the parent committee recommended action against Powell. The committee did order his wife dropped from his pay roll, where she held a $20-578-a-year post. This was done on the basis of testimony that she lives in Puerto Rico, whereas the law requires that a congressman's employee serve either in his Washington office or his home state.

Publication of the hearing record and report as a House document automatically sends it to the Justice Department, as well as other government agencies, Chairman Omar Burleson, D-Tex., said.

Not satisfied with this action, Rep. William L. Dickinson, R-Ala., sent a copy to acting Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark with a request for action.

Astronomers Find New Satellite Circling Saturn

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Astronomers have discovered a 10th satellite circling Saturn just outside the rings that are its trademark.

The satellite apparently is the closest to the planet and the rings, collections of particles that reflect light.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, a clearing house for information about celestial discoveries, confirmed the discovery Tuesday night.

A spokesman said the satellite is between 100 and 200 miles in diameter, but not visible to the naked eye on earth.

Saturn, about 71,500 miles in diameter, is some 886,700,000 miles from the earth. Its largest ring is 170,000 miles in diameter.

Dr. Audouin Dollfus of the Paris Observatory reported to the Smithsonian Tuesday that he had discovered the satellite Dec. 15, but confirmation was withheld until a second sighting was reported.

That came from R.L. Walker at the U.S. Naval Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., who said he spotted the satellite on a photographic plate taken Dec. 18.

The satellite is the first to be found circling Saturn since 1898.

Couple Hitched At Hospital's Emergency Room

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Some people rush to the emergency room at Wilmington General Hospital to get stitched.

Ronald K. Palmer went there and got hitched.

Palmer, 21, of Wilmington, slipped on some ice Monday night and cut his hand when it went through a window.

His fiancée, Janine Bergeron, 19, of nearby Newark, and a friend, took Palmer to the hospital.

Also at the hospital was the Rev. Ross B. Rainey, pastor of the Church of God in Christ, Wilmington, who had brought his ill wife to the hospital.

Palmer and Miss Bergeron had decided earlier to get married, they said, so they decided to do it right then.

After Palmer's cut hand was treated (he didn't need stitches), the minister was asked if he would marry the couple.

They brought in the marriage license from the car outside and the Rev. Mr. Rainey agreed.

"I just happened to have my little book with me," he said. "The one I always use for weddings. I was so nervous and excited that I was glad it was there — I completely forgot the words."

So the two were married, in the middle of the waiting room with nurses and a doctor looking on. A friend, Edward Edge, and two hospital orderlies that the bride knew, were witnesses.

POPULARITY AT HOME IMPORTANT, TOO

How is your popularity rating in your own home? This quiz for teenagers may serve to remind you young people of some good habits that should be cultivated, and it may also give some parents a few thoughts about what they have a right to expect in the way of respect and manners from their children. If you can answer "yes" to 15 of the following questions, you, your brothers and sisters, and your parents are probably well satisfied with your family relationships.

1. Do you call your parents Mom and Dad, or a dedication of Mother and Father, rather than by their first names? Yes No

2. Do you refrain from letting boredom or annoyance creep into your voice when you're asked to do an errand? Yes No

3. Do you often pull that old "Every one else does it" line? Yes No

4. Do you hold doors for your mother and let her precede you through them? Yes No

5. Do you discuss school problems with your parents? Yes No

6. Do you discuss problems involving situations at home with your parents? Yes No

7. Do you respect the privacy of other family members? No peeking at diaries, letters, etc.? Yes No

8. Do you make an effort to make your parents' friends feel at home when they visit? Yes No

9. Do you know when to stop teasing younger brothers or sisters? Yes No

10. Do you refrain from discussing family secrets with your friends? Yes No

11. Do you "build up" other members of your family? Yes No

12. Do you compliment your parents occasionally? Yes No

13. Do you do the chores assigned to you without grudging? Yes No

14. Do you accept the blame when you deserve it? Yes No

15. Are you quick to apologize, even to brothers and sisters, when you are at fault? Yes No

16. Do you share willingly in family projects? Yes No

17. Do you take the trouble to make yourself look nice for your family—at the dinner table, for instance? Yes No

18. Do you ask permission in advance when you want to have a friend for a meal? Yes No

19. Are you prompt in coming when you're called? Yes No

20. Do you keep your parents informed of your plans — where you're going, who with, and when you'll be home? Yes No

Ulster Seniors Will Attend Seminar on Free Form Music

Leon Greenberg, coordinator of the Senior Seminar Project, has announced another outstanding seminar session for Ulster County seniors. Arrangements have been made for the students to meet with Burton Greene, composer and pianist, Saturday, Jan. 7 at 10 a. m. Mr. Greene's theme will be Free Improvisational Movement in American Music: The New Wave Sound.

Burton Greene, originally from Chicago, has been a resident of New York for the past four years. As pianist and co-founder of the Free Form Improvisation Ensemble, he first achieved critical recognition through Town Hall and Judson Hall concerts in 1964. Early last year he organized his quartet for Guild concerts, and has appeared at Fordham, Hunter College, New York University, and the Astor Playhouse. He has recorded several records which have been released by the ESP-Disk Record Company. Greene will soon record some of his music in a classical idiom for Desto Records.

Included among his concert appearances are a premiere of solo, three movement Piano Suite at Carnegie Recital Hall and a concert at the School of Visual Arts. He recently completed a concert tour of upstate colleges including Buffalo University, Syracuse, Cornell, Fredonia, St. Lawrence, and Delhi. These concerts were made possible through a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts and the Esperanto Foundation in cooperation with the above named schools.

The senior seminar program is a joint project of the Secondary Principals' Council of the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services and the State University College at New Paltz. Participating students attend the central schools of Ellenville, Highland, New Paltz, Ontario, Rondout Valley, Saugerties, and Walkkill.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Tasty Ham 'n' Swiss Cheese Sandwich

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Now is the season for late suppers after the movies, the skating party or the school basketball game. Remember, your guests, whether teenagers or adults, will be hungry. Therefore, have something that sticks to the ribs.

It makes a welcome supper dish.

First, the cheese for the filling is grated, then mixed with dairy sour cream. The sandwiches are dipped into a rich batter made with pancake mix and browned in a frying pan or on a griddle, and then topped with a smooth, creamy Swiss cheese sauce. Serve this sandwich with pickles, tomatoes, and corn chips and a basket of fresh fruit.

HAM 'N' CHEESE SANDWICHES SUPREME

Soft butter

6 thin cooked ham slices

1/2 cup dairy sour cream

1 cup grated Swiss cheese

Batter:

1/2 cup milk

1 cup pancake mix

Sauce:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

2 tablespoons all-purpose flour

1/2 teaspoon dry mustard

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup milk

1 cup grated Swiss cheese

slice. Combine sour cream and cheese. Spread over ham; top with remaining bread slices.

For batter, combine eggs, milk and pancake mix in shallow pan. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Dip sandwiches into batter. Pan-fry in butter in heavy skillet or on greased griddle, until golden brown, turning only once. Top sandwiches with hot sauce (see below).

For sauce, melt butter; stir in flour, mustard, salt and cayenne. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until mixture bubbles. Stir in grated cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Makes 6 servings.

SANDWICH SUPREME: Ham 'n' Swiss cheese.

Clothes Can Give Clues to Wearers

NEW YORK (AP) — A man who wants to be boss at home should choose a wife who wears hats. He should beware of those determinedly independent lassies with hair fluttering unfettered to their shoulders.

That is the advice of Dr. William Jennings Bryan Jr., a California doctor, lawyer, and hypnotist who makes instant personality appraisals by taking into account the clothes people wear.

This talent has been of particular value to F. Lee Bailey, the famous defense lawyer who has never lost a case. Although Bailey does not need any help in choosing a wife — he has a lovely one who wears hats — he has called upon Dr. Bryan on several occasions to help him select prospective jurors.

Dr. Bryan was with Bailey in Cleveland, Ohio, for the Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard trial and in Freehold, N.J., recently to assist in picking the jury which eventually acquitted Dr. Carl Connolly of charges of having murdered a neighbor.

The portly 40-year-old doctor, who directs the American Institute of Hypnotism in Los Angeles, believes that although clothes do not make the man, they reveal almost unfailingly what the man is like.

"Suspect a person of having very little self-confidence if his dress is not characteristic of his profession," says the doctor.

"If a man is a banker and doesn't dress like the average one — expensive and conservative — then I conclude he doesn't really think of himself as a banker, or at least not a good one. He probably secretly believes he ought to be something else. He has problems."

As for women, he says, "The exhibitionist, the girl who flaunts her sex on the outside is covering up for a lack of fire on the inside."

General Manager At Vassar College Will Retire in '68

The retirement of Louis L. Brega from his position as general manager of Vassar College on Jan. 31, 1968, was announced today, by Alan Simpson, president of Vassar College.

On behalf of the trustees, faculty and college community, President Simpson expressed his warmest appreciation for Mr. Brega's many years of distinguished service as a senior officer of the college. Mr. Brega's exemplary loyalty and ability has won the respect of all of us inside and outside the college. We are very happy to think that he will continue to live in our neighborhood and take an active interest in its growth.

Before coming to Vassar as general manager in 1954, Mr. Brega, a native of Brockton, Mass., and a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, had been a senior associate in a firm of consulting management engineers. In World War II, Mr. Brega served in the Army Corps of Engineers, becoming executive officer to the First Service Command Engineer. He attained the rank of major and was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon.

As general manager at Vassar, Mr. Brega is responsible for operations and services, and general supervision of construction programs. During his years in this position, a new residence hall, a new foreign language building, and new faculty housing have been constructed, and the college library has undergone extensive reconstruction.

He is a past president and director of the Arlington Rotary Club, a member of the Amrita Club, and has served on the Area Relations Committee of the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce and on the Town-City Incinerator Committee. He is a member of the Advisory Committee to the Office of Administrative Services of the State Department of Education, and of the Advisory Council of Business Officers of the Association of Colleges and Universities of the State of New York. Mr. Brega is a registered professional engineer in New York State and Rhode Island. He is also a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers, the College and University Business Officers Association, and the College and University Personnel Association.

In talking today about his coming retirement, Mr. Brega said his decision was based entirely on personal reasons, and

Look Here! Mrs. Homemaker

Food prices will rise in 1967 but probably not as much as the near 6 per cent increase in the year now ending. But, the increases will not be uniform for all foods. Careful shopping for foods expected to be in large supply in 1967 will help hold down family food budgets. The demand for food will continue strong in the coming year with family incomes rising to new record levels and with exports remaining large, says Louise M. Kakargo, Extension Home Economist.

Knowledgeable food shoppers must be alert to those foods which will be in largest supply and which will go up the least in price in 1967. And food shoppers must be willing to adjust traditional family food consumption habits and preferences. For example, Americans have expressed a strong preference for beef in past several years. Pork consumption has been declining relative to beef consumption. But in 1967, beef production will decline for the first time since 1958. Pork production will be up in 1967 by 5 to 7 per cent. Beef prices are expected to remain fairly steady for 2 to 3 months and then start up again. Pork prices may advance some from spring to summer but are expected that he would miss his close relationships with his colleagues at Vassar but that he and his wife looked forward to being able to do many things that had been long postponed. He said that after a period of relaxation he expected to devote much of his time to service as a consultant in business administration and operations in the field of education. He added that he would continue his active interest in community affairs.

Note Copacabana Beach Near Rio Is in Full Swing

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Down here, with the seasons reversed, tropical summer with all its torments is settling onto the famous beach called Copacabana.

More than 350,000 persons packed into the strip of land behind a crescent of sand will swelter and curse the heat, the noise, the dirt and the lack of public services.

Wouldn't Move
But most of them wouldn't move. If they did, thousands more are waiting to move into what may be the most crowded suburb in Latin America.

Caricacs — as Rio residents are known — don't seem to mind that the beach grows dirtier as the summer moves along, or the constant din of traffic choked into Copacabana's narrow streets.

Nonresidents flock to shop in its boutiques and its 53 art galleries, to play in its 52 major bars and night clubs, or just to toast in the sun on the beach.

They also scrimp and save so that some day they may move there.

Copacabana is built on a narrow strip between sea and mountains. It is 2½ miles long and seldom more than five blocks wide. Residents and visitors jam its 2.4 square miles.

Rent Is High
Those who live there pay as much as $1,500 a month for a beachside apartment. This doesn't guarantee them either water or electricity. Both have been in chronic short supply in Copacabana.

More modest housing is available behind the beach. Families of five or six crowd into tiny two-bedroom apartments just for the status of a Copacabana address.

More than a quarter of Copacabana's residents live in the squalid shantytown "Favelas" precariously perched on hills overlooking the beach. They have neither water nor sewage facilities, but the view is great.

In Upper Bracket
The eight per cent of Copacabana residents who earn more than $500 monthly give the area its glitter.

Copacabana boasts Rio's highest traffic accident rate, a rapidly growing crime rate, and one of the city's highest noise levels.

It is short on schools, and residents complain that the city is cutting into already inadequate parks and squares to build a tourist information center and other public buildings.

Recent surveys focus attention on the suburb's attractions and shortcomings.

"The entire area should be transformed," said architect Marcos Konder Netto, a Copacabana resident. "Obsolete buildings should be replaced with parks, and garage buildings should be put up."

Termed Slum
Dramatist Carlos Heiter Cony, another resident, says Copacabana is simply "a large and comfortable slum."

Benjamin Morais, a Protestant minister who is state secretary for education, feels the spirit is neglected in Copacabana.

"Books are used to decorate shelves," he says.

For whatever it may take away from the spirit, Copacabana more than makes up to it for the flesh. Its beach is almost always covered with bronzed beauties in bikinis.

Its sidewalk cafes are a magnet, and its night clubs are the city's liveliest. Samba and veve mix freely in swinging discotheques. Prostitutes swing in other ways along its mosaic sidewalks and the bars of half a dozen joints.

Gordon A. Craig Sr., secretary; Paul F. Terpening, treasurer; the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, chaplain and Bertrand K. Burr, marshal. Arthur Barrett, tiler, was not present. The first meeting of the lodge is scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 p. m. Former District Attorney Howard C. St. John will be the guest speaker. Fashion Forecast for Spring 1967

Color is the keynote to spring fashions for 1967 and, undoubtedly, this season will go on record as the most colorful to date.

Oh, it isn't too early to discuss spring fashions, just take a look around you. Christmas decorations were disappearing prior to New Year's Eve and I dare say that a tail wagging Easter Bunny is just inside some display manager's closet.

The new spring season will bring colors for everyone. From the newest sit-up-take-notice colors such as potent pink, zam green, shock yellow, zowey orange, pow blue, to the delicate, soft, cosmetic hues which are so right for party dresses in the truly feminine look.

Fabric centers will give us light airy batistes and voiles in bright prints; rayon blends with the linen look. Crinkle cotton, arnel and acetate blends for the silk look. Crinkle cotton, one of spring's newest fabrics, will be seen in paled solids, bright neons and explosive geometric prints.

Speaking of geometric prints, have you noticed the wonderful African styles and fabrics lately? They are definitely "in" for spring.

This spring will see many feminine silhouettes. The tent, perfect in floaty, sheer fabrics or heavier fabrics for the crisp look. The Princess — a classic — will be with us as well as the Trumpet, which like the tent and princess is small through the top and flares at the hemline.

Many exciting looks are in store for the young set. For instance, the return of the romantic personified by "The Dandy," consisting of ruffles and lace spilling from collars, tumbling down shirt fronts and rippling from wrists of dresses, pant suits, and suits. For the outdoor type a little miss could dress for a Safari in either sportswear separates or a dress complete with brass buttons, epaulettes, and enough safari pockets to hold a week's supply of ammunition. Along with the safari look the beat of the jungle is conveyed in special batik-look African inspired print in earth tones or sun colors.

Not to be outdone, the knit manufacturers are on the move with dazzling styles — some shocked with lavender and lime or tangerine spiced with lemon. The young fashion shape gets an "A" for effort . . . as long as it's skinny at the top with a skirt that flaps out at the bottom like the A-shaped "T" dress or the pleated two-piece. One manufacturer has a dandy import from Italy. It is a three piece knit in fresh white for the short sleeve double breasted jacket, shell and smartly pleated skirt. Both the jacket and skirt are bordered in a Roman stripe of gold, black and white. This little wool knit may be purchased for a mere $110.

On cool spring days you'll find a soft sweater can be very handy. We notice the new knitted cashmere collections for the upcoming season offer a fashion-feast of styles by leaping over the traditional classics into effervescent, fascinating designs. You'll find sleeveless shifts in solids or a merry flash of stripes; delicate little lacy pullovers outlined in scallops; lanky pants sweaters with turtles or wide-set funnel necklines and tiny striped camisole pull-overs.

And if you're looking for an outstanding gift for that person who has everything, one leading fashion center in New York is showing a six-ply cashmere sweater for the low, low price of $285. We'll take a dozen — at least!

'Tricks' Keep Home Happy

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The wife of 50 years was telling the new bride, "My dear, I can give you one household-husband-holding hint that has worked like a charm for me for years. When you rush in from a meeting or a game of bridge 15 minutes before your husband is due from work—set the dinner table as fast as you can.

"Then tie on an apron and be standing at the stove when your husband comes in. What he sees then is you busily working to prepare his dinner. And it will never dawn on him that you barely made it home before he did."

Wives who have gotten along happily with their husbands for years have lots of little tricks like that.

For instance, they choose their moments carefully for revealing bad news. And then they present it in the best possible light, so that the husband's reaction is: "Well, it could have been worse."

When they have a plan they know is going to be hard to sell to the man of the house they never spring it on him cold. They work up to it in easy stages. Some wives are so expert at this technique after using it for a number of years that their husbands fail to distinguish between their own ideas and those of their wives.

They know a husband can't be nagged into taking care of his health and so without any talk about it they set about organizing home life so that a husband gets enough rest, eats right, and is relieved of as many annoyances as possible.

They know how to make it easy for a husband to get around to talking about what is worrying him without asking the often irritating question: "What's wrong? You might as well tell me because I know something is."

But it works both ways. Husbands who get along happily with their wives have their own tricks for keeping domestic harmony.

Duke Reserves Top Penn State

Bubas Suspends Nine Players

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

"A position of leadership," said Vic Bubas, Duke's basketball coach, "is a lonely one and I have been lonely for the last couple of days."

Bubas got lonelier later. That was after he had temporarily suspended nine players including four starters for training violations and left himself with only seven players — two on the bench and five on the floor — for Tuesday night's game against Penn State at Durham, N.C.

Bubas would give no details on the suspensions which hit starters Mike Lewis, Bob Reidy, Dave Golden and Tim Kolodziej and reserves Tony Barone, Warren Chapman, Ron Wendell, Jim Liscardo and Joe Kennedy.

The coach would say only, "it is a privilege, not a right to play college basketball."

Fred Lind, C.B. Claiborne, Steve Vandenberg and Stu McKaig joined Verga in Duke's starting line-up. Lind and Claiborne never had scored a point before for Duke but produced 22 between them with Claiborne getting 13.

Vandenberg, who had been averaging 3.4 points per game, led the sub-2000-pointers with 16 points. McKaig scored eight. Bob Francis, who had never played a varsity minute for Duke before, came off the sparsely populated bench and scored five points.

Louisville Wins
Louisville, ranked second in The Associated Press' Top Ten, overcame a strong individual performance by Tulsa's Elbridge Webb and beat the Hurricanes 76-62 in a Missouri Valley Conference game referred by high school officials.

The regular MVC officials failed to show up for the game, which had been rescheduled from Jan. 7. "It was just the breaks," said Tulsa Coach Joe Swank. "Of course I'm not very happy."

Webb scored 18 points in the first half and finished with 27. Westley Unseld led the Cardinals with 24 points and 24 rebounds.

Tulane set a school scoring record and New York University's hot-shooting Mal Graham established an individual mark in other games.

Tulane shot 66 per cent from the floor and ripped 118-106 with Al Andrews pumping in 34 points. The 118 points was two more than the school record set against Northwestern earlier this season.

48 for Graham
Graham, a 6-foot-1 guard, poured in 48 points, one more than the school mark he set last year, as NYU walloped Wagner 100-54.

Chicago Loyola went on a 20-1 tear over six minutes late in the game and ripped Minnesota 87-63. Jim Tillman led the Ramblers with 26 points.

Charles Beasley, who finished with 30 points, dropped in a 20-footer with two seconds left in overtime, lifting Southern Methodist to an 85-83 victory over Baylor.

In a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra, Catholic University surprised St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 76-72 and Temple downed Pennsylvania 74-66.

In other major games, Iowa trimmed Duquesne 55-52, Tennessee ripped Furman 87-49, Texas A&M defeated Rice 69-66, Texas topped Arkansas 71-62 and Auburn downed Louisiana State 70-59.

Wins Cage Crown
MONTREAL, Que. (AP) — Plattsburgh State held off a determined Western Ontario basketball team Tuesday night for a 71-67 win and the championship of the Loyola Centennial Basketball Tournament here.

In the consolation game, the University of Vermont drubbed host Loyola, 86-59.

Tom Gebro scored 20 points for the winners while Western Ontario's Marnix Heersink, voted the most valuable player of the tournament, scored 23.

Plattsburgh was the only Upstate college basketball team to see action Tuesday.

Chamberlain Leads 76ers Over Knicks

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Give Wilt Chamberlain five chances to make two free throws and he's in trouble. But give him just one more inch. . . and you're dead.

Chamberlain recouped in one mighty swoop after missing five straight from the foul line at a critical point in the Philadelphia 76ers' 148-142 overtime victory over New York Tuesday night.

Bill Cunningham scored seven of his game-high 36 points in the extra session after Hal Greer's three-point play had pulled the 76ers even with 21 seconds remaining in regulation play. But it was a sixth effort by Chamberlain that kept the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division leaders alive in the frantic final minute of the fourth quarter.

With 45 seconds to play and the Knicks clinging to a 133-128 lead — the remnant of a 12-point bulge they'd squandered in the closing minutes — Wilt was clobbered under the boards and went to the line for two shots.

He missed both, but grabbed the rebound, went up for another shot — and was fouled again. With the Knicks over their foul limit, Wilt was given two more free throws and a bonus shot.

Stuffs in Rebound
He missed them all, but muscled through again and picked off the rebound, then stuffed it in.

Seconds later, Greer came through with the three-pointer that tied it up 133-133. The 76ers smothered New York in the overtime period and extended their current winning string to 10 games. They have lost only three of 39 starts.

Chamberlain connected on only five of 17 free throw attempts. But he shot 15 for 18 from the floor for a 35-point total and pulled down 33 rebounds.

Philadelphia's victory, after Detroit trimmed Baltimore 117-110 in the doubleheader opener, kept the 76ers seven games ahead of second-place Boston in the East.

The Celtics beat San Francisco 126-121 in overtime and the Chicago Bulls downed Cincinnati 116-111 in Tuesday night's other games.

The Pistons broke away from the Bulls, who have dropped nine in a row, with 2½ minutes to play. Dave DeBusschere snapped a 107-107 tie with two free throws. Eddie Miles and Chico Vaughn then hit wrap-up baskets eight seconds apart.

The Celtics topped San Francisco on the West Coast with a 10-2 spurt in the first two minutes of overtime. The Warriors had tied it 114-114 with 33 seconds to go in regulation play on Tom Meschery's bucket.

At Chicago, McCoy McLemore and Guy Rodgers triggered a fourth-quarter surge that wiped out a 14-point deficit and lifted the Bulls past the Royals despite Oscar Robertson's 40-point spree. The Royals climbed within two points with 1:13 left, but Jerry Sloan hit two quick baskets to insure the Chicago victory.

State Holds Up Licenses Of Three Driver - Trainers

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Harness Racing Commission said Tuesday that the 1967 licenses of three horsemen have not been issued pending "an investigation into their qualifications for a license."

The three individuals named by the commission were William Gilmour, 35, of Westbury, N. Y., a top driver; Robert Shuttleworth, 35, also of Westbury, and Forrest Gerry Jr., 39, of Saco, Maine.

A commission spokesman said the investigation was being conducted in cooperation with the Nassau County and Brooklyn district attorney. He did not elaborate.

The commission ruled that the horses owned and trained by the trio would be permitted to start at Yonkers Raceway in the first three nights of the meeting that opened Tuesday night but the three men would not be permitted to drive "unless and until favorable action on their licenses is forthcoming."

The commission statement also said some other drivers have not as yet been licensed because they have not yet applied.

Campbell Killed In Fiery Crash

CONISTON, England (AP) — Donald Malcolm Campbell's jet hydroplane speedboat, Bluebird, somersaulted and sank today racing on Lake Coniston and the man who lived for speed was feared killed.

Campbell was traveling at an estimated 300 miles an hour.

An explosion was reported as the boat went down.

Wreckage strewn to the surface but there was no sign of Campbell.

Campbell's shoes, helmet, and oxygen mask were recovered.

An eyewitness on the shore said: "The boat appeared to become airborne before somersaulting. A rescue boat circled the spot but appeared to find no sign of life. As the boat hit the water there appeared to be an explosion."

Campbell had been waiting for nearly nine weeks for suitable conditions to break his own water speed record of 276 miles an hour.

During trial runs in his hydroplane speedcraft he has had narrow escapes — twice hitting a bird while traveling at over 200 miles an hour.

A north westerly wind was blowing as the 45-year-old racer started his run today.

His father, Sir Malcolm Campbell, was a noted racer on both land and water. His son took over from his father, who died in November, 1948.

The younger Campbell was the first man to set up land and water speed records in the same year.

In 1964 he achieved 403.1 miles per hour in his gas turbine car Bluebird and 276.3 miles per hour on water in his jet hydroplane speed boat of the same name.

Campbell said then he hoped to do 400 miles an hour on land and 300 on water and if he attained these speeds he would retire.

'For Sale' Sign Up on Hawk Five
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ben Kerner, one of two individual owners of a National Basketball Association club, says he's putting his St. Louis Hawks for sale.

An attorney for Kerner made the announcement Tuesday at a news conference which the 50-year-old owner did not attend.

Kerner suffers from arthritis and his health was given as a primary reason for the decision.

"The operation of a team in the NBA now demands more than just one man," said Michael J. Aubuchon, the attorney for the club. Aubuchon denied that falling attendance precipitated Kerner's decision.

There has been a profit every year since the club moved here in 1955. Last year the Hawks made a profit of $243,975 and a comparable profit is expected this season," said Aubuchon.

Kerner wants local interests to buy the club, said the attorney, but is willing to discuss reasonable offers from any city.

He said the price for the second-place Hawks, who trail the San Francisco Warriors in the Western Division, was a matter for negotiation.

The Hawks, who have won five divisional championships and one league title, have been in St. Louis since 1955.

Kansas City Linemen Hoping To Stop Green Bay Packers

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Forgotten Six, offensive line of Kansas City's AFL champions, has fierce pride in its ability to do the job against Green Bay's NFL kings for the world football title Jan. 15.

"I couldn't be more proud of the men on my team—they were just great," said Jim Tyrer, 292-pound All-AFL tackle, of his team's convincing 31-7 victory over Buffalo. Does the lack of publicity bother the offensive line?

"Now, it's just something you learn to accept," he said. "We get our recognition from the points on the scoreboard."

Curt Merz, 267-pound guard, put it this way: "I don't want to hear anyone talking about who won the game. There were 40 men out there and they were all great."

Fred Arbanas, 214-pound All-AFL tight end with almost no sight in his left eye, is eager for a shot at the NFL champs.

"I think we can beat Green Bay," Arbanas said. "My shoulder will be fine by then, I'll guarantee you."

Some football men view Kansas City's offensive line as the key to the game. Johnny Sample, New York Jets' cornerback who played for three NFL clubs,

Rick Barry Leads With 1,312 Points

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Barry, San Francisco's hot-shooting sophomore, is the only player in the National Basketball Association to have passed the 1,000-point plateau this season but he is about to get some company.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson and Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain are on the 1,000 point threshold, figures released by the NBA showed today.

Barry led the league with 1,312 points through Sunday's games. Robertson was second with 953 and Chamberlain third at 928. Both should pass the 1,000 point mark this week with the Royals playing two games and the 76ers three.

Chamberlain, Barry and Chicago's Guy Rodgers led the other individual categories.

Chamberlain held fat margins in field goal percentage and rebounds. He was averaging 689 from the field with Willis Reed of New York second with 534. Chamberlain had grabbed 923 rebounds, 103 more than Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

Barry's .891 free throw percentage put him in front of Adrian Smith of Cincinnati, who was shooting .888 from the foul line.

Rodgers led in assists with 467 to 347 for Robertson.

Braves Announce Working Agreements

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves announced today two minor league working agreements have been reached, giving the Braves seven farm teams.

Harada Keeps Bantam Title

NAGOYA, Japan, (AP) — Masahiko (Fighting) Harada of Japan made his third successful defense of his world bantamweight boxing championship Tuesday, pounding out a close but unanimous decision over Jose Medel of Mexico in a 15-round fight.

There were no knockdowns but Harada pressed the action most of the way, opening cuts over both the challenger's eyes. Medel cut Harada over the left eye in the fourth round and then was penalized one point for thumbing the cut in the 10th round.

74-68 Nod
That, however, did not affect the decision. Without deducting the penalty point, Japanese Referee K. Kato scored the bout 74-68 for Harada, and both Japanese judges, Haruo Ishiwatari and K. Kashiwagi, had it for Harada 73-68 and 72-69.

The Associated Press had Harada the winner 72-71 without the one point penalty.

Both Lopez Sanchez, the Mexican's manager, and Medel agreed with the decision while questioning the penalty.

"Harada won without question on points," said Sanchez. "We didn't like the penalty point but that's the way the referee saw it and it can't be helped."

Medel, who at first secluded himself in his dressing room, finally came out and indicated satisfaction with the decision, saying simply, "It's okay."

In The Dark
As for the penalty point, Medel said, "I don't know why this was done."

When told it was for thumbing, Medel said that Harada had done the same.

Harada, forcing the action, opened a cut over Medel's left eye in the eighth round, but Medel's handlers were able to close the wound. However, a cut over the right eye bled from the 10th round on.

Harada, who wrestled the 118-pound title from Brazil's Ed Jofre May 18, 1965, brought his record to 46-3-3 with his third successful title defense. Medel weighed 117½ pounds, Harada 117½.

After fifty the accumulation of years gains weight and when all of them climb on your back to roost like a flock of vultures your knees will buckle under you.

The minister met Tom, the village ne'er-do-well, and, much to the latter's surprise, shook him heartily by the hand.

Rev. Cobb — I'm glad you have turned over a new leaf, Thomas. I was delighted to see you at the prayer-meeting last night.

Tom (after a moment of doubt) — Oh, so that's where I was.

It was show and tell time in kindergarten.

Why We Say--

SHOULDER TO THE WHEEL

Mr. Smith (the patient) — Nurse, I'm in love with you. I don't want to get well.

Miss King (cheerfully) — Don't worry, you won't. The doctor's in love with me, too, and he saw you kissing me this morning.

It is not the years you live, it's what you crowd into them that counts.

the drive to a North Side funeral home.

Kin Accompanies Body

Ruby's brother Earl Ruby of Detroit, and two sisters, Eileen Kinsky of Chicago and Eva Grant of Dallas, accompanied the body on the plane.

They appeared composed as they walked quickly and silently past a waiting crowd of some 50 newsmen.

Hershey Weinstein, president of the Original Weinstein & Sons Chapel, said services and burial would be held Friday morning.

Weinstein said that only Ruby's parents were buried in the large family plot in Westlawn Cemetery.

Ruby's death prompted statements from various individuals connected with the case in one way or another.

In New York, William F. Kunstler, one of Ruby's lawyers, said his death denied him the opportunity "to have a jury decide that he was guilty of nothing more than murder without malice, a crime that carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment."

Kunstler added in a statement that such a verdict — of murder without malice — "would have helped to establish that what Ruby did in Dallas on Nov. 24, 1963, was solely the result of a spontaneous reaction to the president's assassination."

Doubts Effect

In Los Angeles, Joseph A. Ball, who was senior staff counsel to the Warren Commission, said he did not see how Ruby's death could have any effect on the validity of the commission's report on Kennedy's assassination.

Ball said he was sure that some persons who have been writing critical books about the report "will spread the word that there was something sinister about Ruby's death."

Ball said he saw no reason to reopen the Warren inquiry unless new evidence developed. He said he had received no communication from any commission officials about any such review.

Ruby had been moved to Parkland Hospital Dec. 9 from the Dallas County jail, where he spent more than three years after killing Oswald before a nationwide television audience.

It was the same hospital where Oswald succumbed shortly after Ruby shoved through a crowd and fired as police escorted Oswald through the City Hall basement Nov. 24, 1963.

Oswald, a malcontent ex-Marine, subsequently was named by the Warren Commission as the assassin whose rifle shots fatally wounded President Kennedy two days earlier on a Dallas street.

Only Kin, Lensesmen

Aside from his brother, Earl, and the two sisters, only reporters and photographers stood by as the pine-covered casket was placed aboard the airliner in Dallas late Tuesday night.

No others were present to say farewell to the brawling night spot owner whose gunfire forever sealed the lips of Oswald, credited officially with committing the assassination entirely on his own.

Ruby died without knowing whether the world believed his story about why he committed the act.

He told his family that he was motivated by an angry passion to save Mrs. Kennedy from having to return to Dallas for the Oswald trial. He also maintained that his path crossed Oswald's only by an accident of timing.

Was Jovial Tuesday Morning

Doctors said Ruby woke up Tuesday in a "jovial" mood, had a bath, and ordered eggs for breakfast. He suffered a "generalized convulsive seizure" at 9:10 a.m. and was dead by 10:30, said Dr. Eugene Frenkel.

Ruby made a clandestine recording at the hospital only days before his death in which he said it was an accident of timing that he had a chance to shoot Oswald as police officers were escorting the handcuffed, 24-year-old suspect to a waiting car in the basement of the city jail, in a routine transfer to the county jail.

Ruby said in the recording that he had understood that Oswald was to be transferred about 10 a.m.

Evidence was produced at Ruby's 1964 Dallas murder trial that the money order was

Yugoslavian Red Leader Killed In Auto Mishap

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Boris Kraiger, 53, vice premier of Yugoslavia and a member of the Presidium of the Communist party, was killed early today when his car skidded on the icy Zagreb-Belgrade highway and hit a tree.

Kraiger's elder son, Janex, was also killed and his younger son was injured. They were en route to Belgrade after spending the New Year holiday in Kraiger's native Slovenia.

Kraiger, before World War II, studied in Ljubljana and because of political activities was sentenced to 2½ years in prison. He joined Marshal Tito's partisans in 1941 and was taken to a concentration camp in Italy. He escaped and rejoined the partisan forces.

After the war he was minister of interior of Slovenia and later became vice premier of the federal government.

Kraiger was one of the most prominent engineers of the current economic reform program.

He died at the Western Union at 11:17 a.m. Police said Ruby shot Oswald at 11:21 a.m. The recording said, in Ruby's words:

Ironie Twist

"The ironic part of this business (is) that I made an illegal turn behind a bus at the parking lot. Had I gone the way I was supposed to go — straight down Main Street — I would never have seen him before."

He said in the tape-recorded conversation with his brother, Earl, that the shooting of Oswald "happened in such a blur that before I knew it I was down on the ground. The officers had me on the ground."

Earl asked him if he knew Oswald before and Ruby replied: "I never had known him or seen him before."

Ruby said there was no truth whatsoever to stories that Oswald had been in his club. He called this "a fabrication."

Ruby was asked by his brother if he ever planned to shoot Oswald, and he replied: "I was so emotionally upset for three days."

The conversation, recorded in Ruby's maximum-security room at Parkland sometime between last Dec. 15 and 18, was made public for the first time Tuesday by Capitol Records at a news conference.

The three-minute conversation will be part of a long-playing record entitled, "The Controversy: The Death and the Warren Report," being produced by the record firm.

In an exclusive report by Associated Press writer Bernard Gatzert, Ruby had said much the same thing as he did in the taped conversation with his brother.

He was described in The Associated Press report as praying that he be given a final lie detector test so that people would be convinced there was no conspiracy involved in his killing of Oswald. He also maintained then that he never knew Oswald and that the killing was a blank in his mind.

Capitol Records said Elmer Gertz, Ruby's attorney in Chicago, took part in the arrangements with the family, believing "if the public could hear Ruby's own voice there could be no question of the facts as he remembered them."

Other Recommendations

Among other things, he: —Recommended a 10-point program designed, he said, to make the state's cities "more livable." The emphasis was on ways to improve housing and encourage expansion of job-producing industry, largely by building upon existing programs.

—Proposed to marshal the state's forces against crime by setting up a new State Department of Crime Control, combining a variety of state agencies under a "unified command."

—Recommended creating a new Department of Transportation to concentrate the efforts of various agencies on developing "a statewide plan for a truly balanced transportation system."

Would Ease Abort Law

—Urged the Legislature to consider modernizing the state's 84-year-old abortion law, much criticized as too rigidly limiting the grounds for abortion.

—Advocated "improvements" in the state's programs of compensation for unemployed, ill and injured workers, without saying exactly what he had in mind.

—Invited the Legislature's attention to campaign pledges made by both the Republican and Democratic parties to provide for a direct primary system of nominating candidates for governor and other statewide offices.

—Said he would recommend "additional state benefits" or veterans of the Vietnam war, again without giving specifics. He has opposed war-bonus bills, favoring scholarship aid instead.

—Exhorted the Legislature to express its opposition to any attempt by Congress to limit the state's federal-aid reimbursement for care given under the new Medicaid program.

—Said he would try again for a more workable replacement for the London-Wadlin law, which bars strikes by public employees. The 1966 Legislature was unable to agree on an improved statute.

Not Lottery Estimate

Rockefeller did not say how much additional money he expected a lottery would produce for education. Estimates have fluctuated widely, depending upon the type of lottery the state adopts.

Education groups have been pressing for extra school aid of at least $100 million, over a full school year. This would require only about $50 million in the state's next fiscal year, which does not coincide with the school year.

On the general subject of taxes, Rockefeller had this to say: "In the next fiscal year, increased revenues are expected from existing taxes."

"When coupled with the judicious use of bonds to finance necessary capital investments vital to our future, they will enable us to maintain the momentum of progressive state leadership, without any increase in state taxes."

$365 Million Reservoir

Rockefeller's bid for a transportation bond issue was regarded by observers as a device to ease state revenue pressure. State spending passed $4 billion in the current fiscal year, and Rockefeller floated bonds to balance his budget.

The current budget consumed more than $380 million in revenue for highway building, a reservoir of about $263 million in previously authorized highway — construction bonds, this could be eaten up in short order — perhaps a year.

The governor keyed his new proposal to an observation that the federal government has cut back its reimbursement for road building.

This, he said, could have a "serious effect on the completion of such vital keys to the state's future" as the Southern Tier Expressway, the Long Island Expressway, the proposed N.Y. Way bisecting the Adirondacks, and arterial highways in the state's major cities.

Rockefeller observed that the state was able to launch a $1.7-billion program to correct water-pollution by gaining approval for a $1-billion bond issue and using much of the money to "pre-finance" the federal government's share. "Pre-financing" is the term used by the state when it advances money for a construction program in anticipation of receiving federal aid.

Would Reap Benefits

"As in the pure-water program," he said, "we would reap the benefits of avoiding costly delay while receiving eventual federal reimbursement for our fair share."

He indicated somewhat obliquely that the bond borrowing might be used for transportation purposes other than strictly highway-building.

One proposal in the transportation section of his message was that the Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority be given broader scope, making the agency responsible for "unified regional policy direction and control of mass transportation in the New York Metropolitan Region."

The New York City Transit Authority, the Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority and the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority would be brought under the commuter agency's wing.

The Aztecs of Mexico held fairs at the end of each week in honor of their gods.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market worked irregularly lower early today in moderate trading.

The excitement of the new year was completely gone and Boeing, off about a point, and General Electric, down a small fraction, went along with the downtrend.

Polaroid sank nearly 2 points. Raytheon 1½ and American Airlines well over a point.

The decline in new factory auto production and a drop last month in sterling area reserves of gold and convertible currencies were cited as depressing factors.

Slight gains were displayed by Chrysler, American Motors and Ford. General Motors lost a fraction.

Liggett & Myers advanced more than a point but the pattern in other tobacco stocks was narrowly mixed.

Opening blocks included: GM, off ¼ at 68½ on 6,200 shares; Standard Oil (New Jersey), off ½ at 43; and Union Carbide, off ¼ at 48½ on 4,400.

Tuesday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.6 to 292.8.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Reports Differ On Red Chinese Labor Changes

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Conflicting reports from Communist China indicate Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao have struck a possibly crippling blow at President Liu Shao-chi through the big Chinese labor movement.

The Soviet news agency Tass and the Czech news agency Ceteka both have announced that the 21-million member All China Federation of Trade Unions — ACFU — has been dissolved and its official newspaper shut down.

A later report from Japanese correspondents in Peking said the ACFU had not been disbanded but that its leadership had been taken over by a new Mao-Lin oriented group called the All-China Association of Red Revolutionaries — ACARR.

If either report is true, it means Liu has lost a critical round in his fight to survive mounting pressure against him. Liu, who made his niche in Red China as a labor organizer and was formerly ACFU chairman, is believed to have heavy trade union support in the present confrontation with Mao and Lin.

Though it is a labor organization, the ACFU's primary function is to carry out the party's orders on production. As such, it is the link between the party and the nation's 26,250,000 industrial workers.

Meet Resistance

Mao's young Red Guards have encountered resistance from workers in many parts of the country where Liu presumably continues popular.

The name of the new labor group suggests that it is on the Red Guard model, probably made up of a minority of nonunionists who follow Mao and Lin.

On Dec. 30 — three days after the reported move against the ACFU — the official New China News Agency reported that the Chinese union had issued a statement protesting the decision of the Soviet-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions barring it from its Dec. 8 general council meeting in Sofia, Bulgaria.

This suggested that the reports the ACFU has been taken over, rather than abolished, are true.

Clear RFK Niece In Fatal Mishap

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A 17-year-old niece of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., has been absolved of criminal blame in a coroner's ruling on the death of a child in a Greenwich automobile accident.

Cathleen Skakel of Greenwich was the driver of a vehicle which struck a bump on Fox Run Lane Nov. 24. The 7-year-old boy who fell out of the car onto the roadway was Hope O'Brien of Greenwich. She died Dec. 1 of injuries suffered in the accident.

Coroner Isadore Kotler termed a freak occurrence.

Miss Skakel is the daughter of George Skakel Jr., who was killed in the crash of a private plane in Idaho several months ago. He was the brother of Ethel Kennedy, wife of the senator.

on can cruise at 650 miles an hour.

The missile can carry either a nuclear or conventional war head, but spokesmen stressed that it contained no explosives of any type.

No Impact Reports

The assumption was that the missile had already hit the ocean South of Cuba, but the Pentagon had no reports that it actually had impacted.

What happens when it impacts?

"It will merely make a big splash," a spokesman said.

A spokesman said the missile's errand course was traced by radar, allowing air force officers to plot where it would go down.

The Pentagon said the missile was being used as a test vehicle in a fighter-interceptor test program.

Nab 2 Men In Upstate Bank Job

Rob Glens Falls Branch of $99,000

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A branch bank was robbed of $99,000 today, and the Sheriff's Department said the two gunmen were captured less than two hours later. The money was recovered.

The department said the men were caught in an automobile near Lake Luzerne, 18 miles north of here. Deputies said one of the men was hiding in the trunk when the car was stopped for a search.

Identify Driver

Police identified the driver as William J. Kuntz, 34, of 154 Suffolk County, who said he received a medical discharge nine months ago from the Marine Corps.

They said the other man refused to give his name immediately. Both were held, without charges, for questioning at Center near here.

Police said that the money was in a suitcase in the trunk of the white, foreign sports car and that the man in the trunk at first threatened to shoot but Kuntz talked him out of it.

Joseph E. Barnes, assistant vice president of the First National Bank of Glens Falls, said the loot totaled $99,000 in cash.

The holdup occurred at a branch on Route 9 in suburban Queensbury. The branch had not opened for the day, police said, when three employees reported to work and found the two men waiting, although there was no sign of forced entry.

Report Incident

Police gave this account: Shortly after 8 a.m., Lynn LaBarge, head teller, and Mrs. Rita Shea and Miss Alice Van Horn entered the bank and were greeted at gunpoint by two masked men waiting in the kitchenette.

The men held the three at gunpoint until Manager George Reeger arrived. He said he heard one of the women scream looked in and saw Mrs. Shea being held with a short-barreled revolver at her head. Reeger said he was forced to open the vault containing the money.

Mrs. Shea told reporters she cried out to LaBarge to let Kuntz into the bank.

"He'll shoot us, he'll shoot us. He means it," she screamed.

The two men taped and tied Reeger and LaBarge in the men's room and Mrs. Shea and Miss Van Horn in the ladies' room. Strips of tape already had been cut and were attached to the rest-room walls.

Taped Men

The two, who wore stockings over their faces, escaped in LaBarge's car and abandoned it early. Deputies and State Police set up roadblocks.

The Lake Luzerne police chief, Kenneth Fitzgerald, was among those who stopped the car.

Another branch of the bank, in South Glens Falls, was robbed of $15,000 last July by a lone gunman. He was 24-year-old Leigh Bartlett of Glens Falls, who was arrested the same day about 80 miles north of Glens Falls.

Raise Nationalists Flag

MACAO (AP) — Anti-Communist labor unions hoisted Nationalist Chinese flags in Macao today in defiance of an order from the colony's Portuguese government.

The tiny six-square-mile colony on Red China's doorstep was quiet but apprehensive. Many of its 275,000 people feared the Nationalist flags would lead to rioting between militant Communists and Nationalist Chinese.

The order forbade flying flags of any nation which Red China considers an enemy. It also forbade activities which Red China considered to be conducted by enemies of Peking and inimical to the interests of the Communist mainland.

Peking has long contended that the Nationalist Chinese use Macao as a base for subversion and sabotage.

In the U. S. more than 800,000 men and women teach in elementary schools.

Kennedy Urges Action Now on N.Y. Pollution

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said today air pollution costs the area $1 billion a year — $70 for every man, woman and child.

"The time for studies is past," Kennedy said in a speech for the conference on interstate air pollution in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area.

Must Apply Knowledge

"The time to apply what we already know is here."

He said every year an average New Yorker breathes in 750 pounds of his own wastes.

"And because there are so many of us crowded into this tiny fraction of the United States," Kennedy said, "a great pall of filthy air blankets the entire metropolitan area — and we all must breathe the same air into which we carelessly spill our refuse."

Kennedy said the "tremendous needs" of the city for light and heat result in the emission of an average of over

Upstate Lt. Tells Of Firing Boat

SAIGON (AP) — Rocket-firing F4 Phantoms from the carrier Kitty Hawk drove a North Vietnamese patrol boat from its coastal lair Tuesday and then set it afire.

The 70-foot boat, camouflaged with brown and green paint, was first spotted moving along the coast "at about 25 knots," Lt. (j.g.) R. E. Amidon of Marcellus, N.Y., said.

Order $250,000

the same are promptly commenced and, on their part completed within 60 days from the service of the order herein.

Zang alleges that back in March 1962 an agreement was entered into that if "favorable action" on necessary preliminary requirements were obtained by the plaintiff, his request for water would be granted. The defendants deny that these requirements were ever met. Zang alleges that on September 6, 1962, the agreement became a valid contract but the City repudiated and breached the contract.

The Kingston Water Department through its counsel, Gaffney and Hill, deny any legal agreement was ever reached, and sought a bill of particulars, asked that the default be vacated or as an alternative that the plaintiff's notes of issue be stricken and it was moved to open the default. Defendants claim no consent from the Water Resources Commission was ever received by Zang. They also allege that the city's engineer never approved sale of water to the Hillside Acres Water Company for resale by Zang to ultimate customers in the development.

Zang is represented by Napoleano, Kelly and Saccoman and Corporation Counsel Vernon Murphy appeared for the cross motion at Albany special term last November 25.

Justice Hunt in his memorandum says, "while it is the policy of the Third Department to strike notes of issue which are filed before pre trial procedures have been completed, the circumstances herein are such as to call for an exception and accordingly the motion to strike is denied and the case may remain on the Deferred Calendar. This is without prejudice to the plaintiff's moving the case from the Deferred Calendar if the defendants fail to serve pleadings and complete, on their part, all pre-trial procedures within 60 days, as aforesaid." The decision is dated December 5, 1966.

Begin Honeymoon

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — The only husband and wife team of ambassadors in U.S. history began a 10-day honeymoon today in the lower Himalayas of southern Nepal.

Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador at large, and the U.S. ambassador to Nepal, Miss Carol Laise, were married Tuesday in a quiet ceremony at Miss Laise's residence. The two had worked together in the late 1950s when he was U.S. ambassador to India and she was first secretary of the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi.

Miss Laise, 48, is a career foreign service officer, formerly stationed in Washington. Bunker, 72, is a widower.

Martin, Murphy To Participate In Police Parley

Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin and City Police Chief Robert F. Murphy will join police officials from five area counties Wednesday at the Bear Mountain Inn for their eighth annual meeting on police training matters.

Delegates will include representatives of the chiefs of police, sheriffs, FBI, State Police and the New York State Police Training Council.

Started in 1960

This meeting brings together the officials who have been designated to assist in the mandatory statewide police training program pioneered by New York in 1960 and continued to the present time in an expanded form. In this area Chief Robert Lewis of Orangeburg serves as training coordinator, assisted by several sub-coordinators from the counties of the area. The sub-coordinators are:

Greene County: Sheriff Frederick C. Knight and Chief Harry T. Dubois of Catskill;
Orange County: Sheriff Horace A. Ketchum and Chief Russell Adgate of Middletown; Rockland County: Sheriff Ray Lindeman;
Sullivan County: Sheriff Louis Ratner and Chief John Sharoff of Monticello; and Ulster County: Sheriff Martin and Chief Murphy of Kingston.

It has become traditional at these annual zone meetings to review the highlights in police training during the past year and to consider changes and new programs for the year ahead. Seen as a significant development for 1967 is a new program awaiting legislative approval, in which police officers promoted to first-line supervisory positions will be required to complete a minimum course in police supervision.

The minimum training requirement for new police officers was advanced by an Executive Order of Gov. Rockefeller to 240 hours of instruction beginning Jan. 1, 1967. The new requirements and procedures will be reviewed at the meeting, along with other matters of interest in police training.

Other Officials

Other law enforcement officials of the area who are expected to attend the meeting at Bear Mountain include:

John F. Malone, assistant director in charge, FBI, New York City; Edward G. Dillon, executive director and counsel, New York State Sheriffs' Association, Albany; Major Thomas H. Denlea, New York State Police, Ford; special agent, FBI, Suffolk County, L. J. Fenelon, special agent, FBI, New York City; and Orrell A. York, Ronald Phillips, Frederic W. Smith Jr., staff members, Municipal Police Training Council.

The meeting is sponsored by the Division of Municipal Police Training, of the State's Office for Local Government, the agency assigned to administer the statewide police training program.

Fire Claims Life

he was smoking and ignited his flannel shirt. The fatal Ellenville fire was discovered at about 11:30 p. m. yesterday and firemen in command of Chief George Damms responded and quelled the flames believed to have originated from a space heater.

After the fire was extinguished, authorities said, firemen found the body of Schumann.

Wife Not at Home
Police Chief Abe Rand and Sergeant George Sheeley investigated the death with Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, uniformed officers of the village police department and BCI Investigator Charles Teelon of the State Police.

According to police, Schumann's wife, Florence was not at home at the time of the fire.

Coroner Chipp ordered the body removed to the County morgue at Kingston Hospital for examination and a possible autopsy. The cause of death was not immediately determined.

May Seek Court Order to Permit Delivery of Food

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — An official of the Youngstown Osteopathic Hospital says a court order may be sought to limit picketing which has interfered with deliveries of food and oxygen to the hospital.

Florence Marsteller, hospital administrator, said about 20 strikers and sympathizers three times turned back oxygen truck deliveries and barred one food truck Tuesday.

Hospital employees went out in their own cars and brought back food for patients and staff, but the hospital said it may be necessary to tap reserve oxygen supplies Thursday if no oxygen is delivered before then, hospital sources said.

The oxygen truck drivers refused to cross picket lines. Mrs. Marsteller said many patients at the hospital, which has a capacity of 108, need oxygen. The hospital was reported less than three-fourths full.

Members of Local 47, Building Service and Maintenance Employees, struck Saturday for recognition. Nonprofessional workers at the hospital voted recently in favor of the Youngstown Osteopathic Hospital Employees Association to represent them, but Local 47, officials contend the election is invalid.

The union says ineligible employees were among the 145 allowed to vote. Local 47 says it has signed up 60 per cent of the 105 workers it considers eligible. Bargaining talks are to start Thursday between the hospital and the employees association.
